

The Purpose of Life—Both Mine & Yours
And Acquiring the Tools to Discern PBMs and NDEs

This is a book that contains my testimony of temple covenants, to assist those who are struggling somewhere along the way. Every mortal stumbles and needs answers sometimes, so here... Have an answer or two or three or more.

By Joel A. Vanfleet

Last updated April 26, 2025

Table of Contents

PART I: The Purpose of Your Life

PART II: Ten Essential Reflection Principles to Know Today

PART III: A Key Testimony

PART IV: A Special Message

Note that whereas Part Three contains the bulk of my testimonial experience related to the pre-earth realm of spirits, other pieces of this testimony are spread throughout all parts of the book.

Disclaimer

While I am a member of the “Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints,” or the “Church of Jesus Christ,” or the “Church,” I am currently not an official representative of the Church as a whole. I do represent one member of the Church, which is myself. Besides quoting scriptures of the Church or authorities who do represent the Church, all other surrounding statements such as my testimony as contained in this message are my own and the reader or listener is to use their own cognitive ability to use the principles learned from the contents of this message to determine the truths contained therein.

Members of the Church are encouraged by Church Authorities to share their testimonies online across the various platforms. Therefore, to abide by this counsel and as aligned with the revelation through my patriarchal blessing, this document has been created, which testimony contains quotations from Church sources. Therefore, I must state the following paragraph.

This document is for non-commercial, educational purposes only. The quotes and references from The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints are used under the principles of fair use. All rights and intellectual property of the quoted material are retained by their respective owners. No infringement is intended. For more information, please refer to the official website of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at churchofjesuschrist.org.

In the audio version, I may not disclose every scriptural passage or reference, but you may find these in the written version, which you can use to follow along. Last, you may believe that I did not go about this message in a perfect way, but I assure you that I did so according to the best I could at the time with the talents God has bestowed to me.

This document has not undergone any third-party professional proof-reading or editing. My factual and undistorted testimony of truths is undeniably a gift from God, yet the many errors within this message are the errors of a mortal being.

This document is not meant to cover every concern someone has. However, the principles contained therein provide “enough” knowledge to lead someone towards the best direction possible to experience absolute maximum fulfillment from their brief mortal existence.

No matter what happens to me due to this message, know this: my testimony was true, is true, and will still be true. In time, everyone will also know that my testimony is true, and I will meet you at the judgement bar of God to look you in the eyes and hear your confession of the truthfulness of my words.

PART I

The Purpose of Your Life

Introduction

The many people throughout the years who have urged me to write this book is another evidence we have all come to this life with a purpose. We each have our spiritual gifts and our own part to play in this mortal performance. I did the best I could to follow the promptings of the Holy Ghost to craft the book, “The Purpose of Life—Both Mine & Yours.” I recognize it is not perfect, but I feel acceptable in the imperfection. Nevertheless, the document is self-explanatory. Yes, the contents of the message are dangerous, and I will explain the reason.

“But Thomas, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came. The other disciples therefore said unto him, ‘We have seen the Lord.’ But he said unto them, ‘Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe.’ And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, 'Peace be unto you.' Then saith he to Thomas, 'Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing.' And Thomas answered and said unto him, 'My Lord and my God.' Jesus saith unto him, 'Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed'" (John 20:24-29).

To every Doubting Thomas out there, and you know who you are, this document is for you from God, to appease your doubts. To the strong in mighty faith, this document will ignite your spiritual rocket boosters that lead to greater miracles and hopefully bring you closer to grander charity.

There are many people who do not wish for the Second Coming of Jesus Christ to happen, but such paradigms cannot change the reality of the inevitable. As we receive more light, we also become more polished and refined. However, there is an end to refinement. The more notable worrisome segment is that if we are presented with a mountain of light, yet do not allow ourselves to become refined, because our hearts are so hardened or overwhelmingly fearful, then we can become burned crusted dross devils, only to find ourselves cast out when the impending and burning Second Coming of Jesus Christ occurs.

This concern is the function plugging in the strong words as found in the first half of the book. I have also theorized if this is the principle behind why God placed the Isaiah chapters in the Book of Mormon where they are presently found.

Satan and his devils do not want the world to be filled with light, but they want to take all the light away. They want your family to be miserable, scared, content with poor distorted scraps, numb, and distracted from those things that matter most. When you embrace more light, you attract the attention of ill-willed devils. This document injects a large amount of sure light into someone. If you are not ready to consume that light, I can understand. Nonetheless, the light God brings to you through the gifts bestowed to me will bring you peace, confidence, hope, mighty faith, strength, and a higher enthusiasm to better serve your fellow brothers and sisters, especially your own family.

Until this document is commanded to be taken down by the proper Church authorities, this will be available to you to read or listen to. The location of the downloadable pdf ebook and YouTube audiobook is at purposeofexistence.com.

Do you want to know more about your Heavenly Mother, Heavenly Father, or Jesus Christ? How about the relationship between our Heavenly Parents and Jesus Christ? Do you want to begin a journey to know Them personally? Do you want to know the purpose of your life? Do you want to know why there are different stories from people who have claimed to have seen beyond the veil? Can we really know of spiritual things or are we simply left blind, to work out the logic “according to [our own] genius” (Alma 30:17)? Are we really expected to become perfect in mortality? What is the purpose of religion and is religion truly necessary? What are some things that go on inside the Temples of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints? Do you possess spiritual gifts and what would be the purpose of spiritual gifts? Are there really angels and what are the duties of angels? This document will bring the answers you seek and more. However, to better comprehend such principles, as each section complimentary and foundationally work together in one purpose, you must trudge through all the sections and continue to elevate your commitment as you go.

To present this document to you is one of the reasons I am still permitted to walk among you. Why would God position me here on this mortal planet with you at this time to present this information? You will never know if you do not read or listen to the book.

My Aspiration for You to Decipher the Principles

This message may challenge your current theologies, whether recent or long-held since childhood. While my words are imperfect, I did my best while I sought the guidance of the Holy Ghost. My aim is to demonstrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ and encourage you to leave behind temporal philosophies or even sound false doctrines, embracing truth wherever it is found. Wisdom states to approach, revisit, and do not avoid sources where there is a concentration of truth. However, discerning truth from error is a matter within itself and a gift I hope to assist in strengthening for you.

This is both a challenging and wonderful time to live on Earth. The words of Isaiah are being understood, significant prophetic events are occurring, including the anticipation of the Messiah, which is finally being embraced by the Jewish community.

Why would anyone be angry with another person who seeks a prize if they themselves do not care about a prize? Why should anyone who knows the truth refrain from disclosing the means by which they acquired this knowledge, and instead merely assert that they possess it? Is this due to slothfulness, ignorance, arrogance, fear, misguided traditions, or perhaps the Holy Ghost revealed to them that the subject was not ready to be revealed? There is no simple answer to this last question, because there are times when God does withhold certain knowledge to try people's faith, depending on the earth's timeline to the Millennium. Unless explicitly directed otherwise by Divine instruction at the time, if you have received a revelation from God affirming the truthfulness of a matter, it is prudent not to conceal this knowledge. Instead, actively share and utilize such insights rather than allowing them to fade into obscurity over time. At the time of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ, how would you like to respond to the Master, "And I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine" (Matthew 25:25)? Think about this and how Jesus Christ answered that servant.

The matter of discretion in measuring the level of sacredness to share has been a debate among the culture of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Dallin H. Oaks opposing the practice of always freely sharing said, "Spiritual experiences are often sacred and are to be shared only when the Spirit prompts us to do so." Gary E. Stevenson who speaks of sharing our personal spiritual experiences to inspire and uplift others, said after quoting Joseph Smith and Sidney Rigdon's testimony of together seeing Jesus Christ and the Father, "I invite you to seek opportunities to bear your testimony in word and in deed." The second Prophet of this last dispensation, Brigham Young, said, "I can talk about the things of the Kingdom of God all day, but most people will have no idea what I'm talking about except those" already walking the Covenant Path. I recall a time when serving my mission in Thailand when my companion shared a personal spiritual experience with a woman who joined the Church, but stopped attending her church meetings. The experience was about him and another member being in a certain place and discerning the presence of a member of the Church who recently passed away. The shared experience was enough to trigger many past testimonial memories for this woman to the point that she returned to full Church activity and even immediately brought back many other members who have not attended church in a while.

While I am risking revealing a minor degree of special things to my spiritual brothers and sisters, there is always the potential these things will also penetrate the eyes and ears of unwelcomed audiences, just as Joseph Smith's revealing of the First Vision to a local Protestant preacher who found prideful offense in the hearing of his testimony. However, that is life and my own choice, because I love you and desire for you to hear these things and feel of the special tender spiritual feelings that accompanies the words of my testimony, which are true.

I am not revealing anything such as details of sacred covenants, things reserved for angelic passage, or anything God has commanded that I not reveal. Therefore, it is solely my right and my ambition that you cherish these things to bless you with an increase of faith in God to perform the miracles your life needs at this time and in the future even to eternity, so I urge you to please enjoy.

Individuals who dive into this document while they have animosity towards me or my words will discover that the Holy Ghost will withhold things of this message from them. They will most likely believe that the contents of this message is gibberish. For those who have charity, the love of Jesus Christ, will discover that the Holy Ghost will be enlightening your mind with all that you need to know at this time of your life.

I cannot ever deny the testimony God has allowed me to deliver to you this day. I cannot deny the memories I possess along with the associated feelings. I am just one man. Who is to believe the testimony of one man? Though I encounter various challenges, my testimony provides the necessary encouragement to persevere when hope appears to be diminishing. As you read this message, you will realize God provides each child in mortality the gifts necessary to carry on and be proffered the opportunities to receive more pearls or to decline. Most who come across this message are likely in the pursuit of seeking, knocking, and asking.

This message may not contain every single point someone needs to know at this time in their life, but it may. At the least, will contain enough inspiration to the humble heart to lead them to pray with greater faith and experience an increase of miracles in their life, including faith to acquire all they need to know at this time in their life. I acknowledge that these things are not perfect, but you may know through the power of the Holy Ghost what is and is not truth if you choose to receive such gift if not already. If there are imperfections contained in this message, I am sure my eyes will one day be opened to see such. If you can identify any imperfections, consider yourself blessed.

This message will especially benefit both those sheep who have strayed off the Path and sheep who have yet to discover the Path and need a directional nudge to get on their way to experience eternal success. For those sheep still trotting the Path, you will find your faith strengthened.

I can guess there are people who seek answers to their life's meaning and are ready to study this, because they do have the faith and knowledge needed to overcome the malevolent powers that will seek them out. There are people who roam the earth with sacred memories and are not sure how to process such memories and have been afflicted by powers unseen and need assistance to overcome such powers; to them, they will welcome this message.

Like the scriptures, this message will be best understood by individuals who have been initiated in the Holy House of the Lord, the Gateway to Heaven. Nonetheless, there are still plenty of messages of hope for every righteous seeker. The gift to be in God's presence will require a disillusionment from one's tightly held theologies that do not align with eternal truths.

In addition, Russell M. Nelson said,

“When we make and keep covenants with God, we can have confidence that is born of the Spirit. The Lord told the Prophet Joseph Smith that our confidence can ‘wax strong in the presence of God.’ Imagine the comfort of having confidence in the presence of God!

“When I speak of having confidence before God, I am referring to having confidence in approaching God right now! I am referring to praying with confidence that Heavenly Father hears us, that He understands our needs better than we do. I am referring to having confidence that He loves us more than we can comprehend, that He sends angels to be with us and with those we love. I am referring to having confidence that He yearns to help each of us reach our highest potential.

“Now, how do we gain such confidence? The Lord answers this question with these words: ‘Let thy bowels ... be full of charity towards all men, ... and let virtue garnish thy thoughts unceasingly; then shall thy confidence wax strong in the presence of God.’

“There's the key! In the Lord's own words, charity and virtue open the way to having confidence before God! Brothers and sisters, we can do this! Our confidence can truly wax strong in the presence of God, right now!... As we diligently seek to have charity and virtue fill our lives, our confidence in approaching God will increase. I invite you to take intentional steps to grow in your confidence before the Lord. Then, as we go to our Heavenly Father with increasing confidence, we will be filled with more joy, and your faith in Jesus Christ will increase. We will begin to experience spiritual power that exceeds our greatest hopes.”

A statement to those who deny the confirming witness of the Holy Ghost when reading my testimony of the truth of God and call me a liar: At the very least, why not simply experiment on the words of Jesus Christ until the time of His Second Coming be fulfilled? Do you suppose the Prophet Russell M. Nelson is a jaded impostor who just wants to exaggerate some excitement by boldly revealing to us that the Second Coming of Jesus Christ is now imminent? Do you think the Prophet is crying wolf? Even with your agency, if you choose not to believe me or even acknowledge the strong undeniable feelings from the Holy Ghost that confirm my words, time will prove the Prophet’s words. For he said,

“The best is yet to come, my dear brothers and sisters, because the Savior is coming again! The best is yet to come because the Lord is hastening His work. The best is yet to come as we fully turn our hearts and our lives to Jesus Christ.”

Therefore, by committing to follow Jesus Christ’s Covenant Path to learn of and know your Heavenly Parents, I pose the question: What do you stand to lose? Perhaps, you fear losing your job, friends, ego, a neighbor’s respect, a theology you are invested in and have defended, or your time spent in wasteful activities? Perhaps, a better question is: What do you have to gain? Ultimately, everything. Look into the stars and try to imagine. What God offers you is beyond what your mortal mind could possibly comprehend, except for a mind properly quickened by the Holy Ghost.

I know Heavenly Father lives. I know Heavenly Mother lives. I know Jesus Christ lives and really was resurrected. I know Them. Yet, I too, am here in this mortal life with my own mission to fulfill, but I came here to this earth with special knowledge of God's Plan of Salvation for us, Their children. I know the Plan of Salvation is factual. I know you can feel God's love for you right now, confirming my words to your heart.

I invite everyone who is reading this to distance yourself from the unnecessary temporal dramatic perceptions of this world and disillusion yourself from the eternally-distracting mirages of this life existence. We are all aboard this cruise ship called life, but those who walk the Covenant Path are the crew. The vessel is advancing swiftly into the Millennium at an accelerated pace. Do not be like the Jews of old who imagined up their own interpretations of the coming Messiah. Do not create your own mortal illusion and impending expectation of what you believe the signs of Jesus Christ's Second Coming should appear like. "The Spirit speaketh the truth and lieth not. Wherefore, it speaketh of things as they really are, and of things as they really will be; wherefore, these things are manifested unto us plainly, for the salvation of our souls" (Jacob 4:13). The Spirit gives us a dose of reality, peace, guidance, comfort, and helps us become more Christ-like, to know our Heavenly Parents, to know how to be like Them forever, to obtain the faith to do Their will, even miracles. This is joy. If you feel you have been kept from feeling this joy, you can be assured that you have been deceived by evil beings who have blinded you to the truth, perhaps teaching you false doctrines, convincing you to do things that would bind you down. Even when someone is not walking this Covenant Path I speak of, they are all still benefiting from it throughout each day of their life.

Russell M. Nelson said,

"Jesus Christ took upon Himself your sins, your pains, your heartaches, and your infirmities. You do not have to bear them alone! He will forgive you as you repent. He will bless you with what you need. He will heal your wounded soul. As you yoke yourself to Him, your burdens will feel lighter. If you will make and keep covenants to follow Jesus Christ, you will find that the painful moments of your life are temporary. Your afflictions will be 'swallowed up in the joy of Christ.' It is neither too early nor too late for you to become a devout disciple of Jesus Christ. Then you will experience fully the blessings of His Atonement. You will also be more effective in helping to gather Israel."

This book is not for everyone, because not everyone wants to learn truths and genuinely progress beyond their current ignorance and menial life of pursuing temporal pleasures and reliefs. Some brothers and sisters prefer to remain in the ignorant-blissful garden of naivety. We each have our agency. Yes, what we do not know, we do not know, so let us find out to know and never be satisfied with what we already know. This book is for the righteous seeker who strives to become closer to God, to feel God's presence, to better know God, and to shed every conceivable biased belief they may have about God or the Plan of Salvation, to bring the greatest sense of meaning into their own lives, their mortal existence here on this earth. Therefore, let us now put off the old carnal person for a higher and holier eternal perspective to better lead our families to a greater fulfillment, satisfaction, purpose, and the pursuit of eternal progression with a truer reason to smile and not suffer from constant unwarranted apprehension. Let us reach for greater things beyond this frail mortal world with a sure hope of promises made by our Holy Parents in Heaven. No, your worries will not all vanish, because you are still required to put forth all your efforts, but only after all that you can do then you can qualify for the grace of Christ when you pray to the Father for His Divine help, and yes, even in our menial chores. Therefore, let us praise God, but not let praising be our barrier as the rest of the Christian world finds themselves facing in overwhelming awe. On the other hand, let us not hinder our potential to grasp the magnificence in the infinite details of Jesus Christ's pre-mortal origins and accomplishments, birth into mortality, ministry, sacrifice in Gethsemane, sacrifice by the Chief Priest, sacrifice and death on the cross, ministry among the realm of spirits, His ultimate climax—or resurrection, and His continual pleadings for all of us to embrace Him in all we do.

Do you feel your “all that you can do” is not good enough? Perhaps, you shortchange yourself? God knows your heart, your desires, your weaknesses, your strengths, so never forget to pray to God and express your true inner feelings. Be honest, sincere, and ready to accept what God provides to us to ascend beyond this shortsighted world into a realm of eternal views, filled with unquenchable love, and higher purposes.

A Fierce Caution

You will understand my reasoning better if you choose to read the entire contents of this message. I have substantiated reason to seek to emulate Jesus Christ's teachings, and so should anyone who desires above all to know their Heavenly Parents.

While some individuals may attribute every misfortune to malevolent spirits, others argue that people often exaggerate the role of Satan and his followers in the adversities they face. The truth is this: There are evil spirits who make havoc, everyone has weaknesses, genuine spiritual discernment is essential for comprehension on a case-by-case basis, and there is always a reason for everything that happens; but that reason may or may not be related to evil spirits, so if you are an average fellow or even a priesthood leader of importance do not be so quick to disregard one way or another. Doing otherwise can simply be an act of pride, lazy theology, a lack of true faith, is devilishly dishonest, and can even be considered a form of schizophrenia as such person's mind is not in touch with reality.

Initially, I was unsure of the reasons that compelled me to compose the following content. However, the thoughts persisted in my mind until I documented everything. I do know that I am to at least communicate these messages as part of fulfilling my life's mission, to help Jesus Christ's sheep or the elect who heard His voice, but are struggling somewhere along the way for one reason or another.

The spiritual manifestations I experienced in the process of writing the contents were nothing short of amazing. The materials are alarmingly complementary with those of Nephi when stated that the people "were angry with him, even because he had more power than they, for it was not possible that they could disbelieve his words" (3 Nephi 7:18), which is the opposite of Isaiah's calling (see Isaiah 6:9-10). Although these things are natural to me, after writing the things contained here, because of the power of the testimony of these words, I have experienced diverse attacks by malevolent beings from the unseen world. We are yet promised that through our regular temple attendance we will have angels charge over us (see Doctrine & Covenants 109:22) and His Spirit shall be in our hearts, and His angels round about us to bear us up (see Doctrine & Covenants 84:42, 88). Russell M. Nelson recently said,

"We are instructed that all who worship in the temple will have the power of God and angels having 'charge over them.' How much does it increase your confidence to know that, as an endowed woman or man armed with the power of God, you do not have to face life alone? What courage does it give you to know that angels really will help you? Finally, we are promised that 'no combination of wickedness' will prevail over those who worship in the house of the Lord."

I have wondered much if I should just withhold the messages presented here from the world, because not many people cherish the wonderful sweet blessings of the God Who loves them without end. HOWEVER, I do warn all readers that by reading these things, believing them, and embracing them (and you will have no honest reason to not believe in them), you too will experience a guaranteed increase in confrontations with dark forces. Yes, the trials will soon pass if you fight through them with mighty sincere prayer, faith, and doing the best you can with all the knowledge and inspiration you possess.

And.... Here you go, the contents of the answers to all the questions that malevolent devils do not want you to know and embrace.

Purpose of Life Prologue

Without exclusion, I am proof we all came to earth with a purpose, things to overcome, things to accomplish, and things to learn. I am not the only person who remembers things from before birth. God does not allow us to be tempted beyond what we can bare; and by being prayerful and humble, God will lead us to salvation from such temptations and can bless us with the wisdom of truth we need to be free. I can guarantee that I have already passed through temptations that would have forever crippled any weak mortal, but God bestowed upon me the strength needed to overcome. Our mortal experience is each tailored to our eternal needs. God's plan for us is perfect and filled with every detail required to refine us and make us happy and fulfilled.

Every single brother and sister born on this planet is granted their fair share of challenges to overcome and variables to choose from. I feel like an angel who was born with a fair load of excess mortal weaknesses and limitations, to learn how to enjoy a physical body, appreciate beauty on another level, and walk among delusional spiritual siblings who behave as though they could care less about the purposes of their mortal experience and their existence's potential. It can be stated that just like you, I also have my own significant load to endure.

A commonality of people like me is feeling like we are on a bitter-yet-bounteous deserted island with a never-ending thirst for more. However, combined with the heavenly power I have been entrusted with by a man named Howard Kempton (which authority received as by the laying-on-of-hands can be traced back even to Jesus Christ), some of the pre-birth memories I have are the master "keys" in unlocking the clear comprehension and discernment of ALL genuine spiritual PBM's (pre-birth memories) and NDE's (near-death-experiences). Although my effort to demonstrate your requirements may not be flawless, I am committed to doing my best to assist you in gaining additional spiritual tools for discerning narratives.

Does remembering life before birth make life easier? Depends on the perspective, because this life still has equilibrium, and there are still mortal limitations and the need to learn patience amid having answers people everywhere ask. I confess I remember that I struggled with patience even before birth. A patriarch once told me that God is not really raising children here, but He is primarily trying to raise parents. Yes, my perspective differs from that of the general population, which often focuses on material possessions and self-interest. However, my viewpoint also includes unique aspects of beauty that has never crossed your heart before, which I desire you to see if God permits. I would like to assist you in beginning your journey towards seeing the universe through my spiritual eyes, which eyes retain memories of pre-existence, persistently yearns for Home, and continuously seeks a connection with our Divine origins, reaching out daily for the loving security provided by God and striving to honor and please our Heavenly Parents. Even then, the best source for an eternal perspective is received within the walls of the dedicated temples of the Church of Jesus Christ through the communications of the Holy Ghost.

Allow me to lay down the purpose of your life in four fully complementary categories, followed by ten important reflection principles to help you in your life's journey. At the end, I leave you with special words, my testimony. Please consider that all the words in this message work together as a whole. This is not a cafeteria-style message. I will not enumerate all instances of opposition to eternal progression, as you may discover these independently.

Your Life's Purpose Simplified

1) To receive a mortal experience with agency.

- a. To experience a limited and frail existence as we only perceive that we are outside of the sight of our Heavenly Parents; to become our own individuals according to the second category (similar to a teenager separating from their parents in the discovery of their own unique identity).
- b. To learn to think for ourselves in pursuit of discovering eternal principles such as faith, hope, and charity.
- c. To further experience opposition in all things in a mortal environment filled with seen and unseen influences, including birth and perseverance, betrayal and fellowship, and death and resurrection; all while in the pursuit of transcendence, the act of continuously moving forward and upward. Yet, we can choose to remain stagnant, reverse progression, become arrogant, adopt devilish qualities such as malevolence, deceitfulness, greed, mediocrity, and ingratitude as a handful of examples.

- d. For an opportunity to shed all arrogance, to learn with confidence first-hand of God's attributes such as the magnificent love God reserves for us and expresses to us, to learn humility, to accept our limitations and that we ALL need help, that we cannot fulfill our purpose alone. Without the Holy Ghost, one cannot reach Celestial transcendence.
- e. To experience universal and eternal optimism.
- f. To learn to communicate by adopting virtuous portions of world cultures or the universal culture of Divinity.
- g. Discover wisdom of proactiveness versus reactivity, and responsibility versus victim mentality.
- h. To accept responsibility for everything such as who we are and can become while yoked to Jesus Christ.
- i. To discover you have more to you than just simple mammal cognition, five simple senses, or your extremities to succeed in your mortal journey, but that you have been blessed with spiritual gifts that require keys such as faith, hope, charity, humility, gratitude, patience, forgiveness, optimism, and integrity.

2) To prove to ourselves what our heart sincerely desires to the extent of our abilities

(Yes, some people have more mental or physical handicaps than others).

- a. Will we pursue truth no matter where it comes from?
- b. Do we want to discover our eternal identities? Do we want to know our Heavenly Parents and want to be like Them? How much effort are we willing to put toward this and how far will we go?

- c. How serious can we become to surrender cultural manners and theologies that are false, malevolent, or damning, to prayerfully seek out and adopt the heavenly and universal culture of love and righteousness? How can we detect such cultural norms in our language and communication modes and overcome these destructive methods of communication to adopt Christ-like communication styles that are more eternally investing and lead our families to infinite satisfaction of virtuous value?
- d. Are we willing to go to any length to learn, acquire, and embrace the very best virtuous things our Heavenly Parents have provided to Their children who are going through this mortal experience, including academic, religious, societal, familial, technological, proven scientific, or the creations of the earth and heavens above and below? Will we put forth all the effort for effective deep meditation, prayer, study, travel, interviewing, experimentation, and personal psychological composition?
- e. What degree of eternal and universal laws are we willing to pursue to learn and obey?
- f. Are we willing to listen to, seek, and follow the diverse communications our Heavenly Parents constantly send to us both individually and collectively? Yes, They do communicate to every one of us through the means we need to maintain our agency and uphold the collective integrity of this mortal existence, which includes the sending of diverse angels in diverse forms from prophets, Jesus Christ Himself, spirit angels, resurrected angels, and even people like me and others who you have known in your life.
- g. To what extent are we committed to our progression? How about eternal progression with our spouse and children as top priority?
- h. *The acceptance of the Savior or Anointed Messiah (see section *Reflections on Religion): Do we understand that we all have weaknesses to provide opportunity to be humble and sincere? Are we willing to forgive and accept forgiveness from others, including forgiveness from ourselves? Are we willing to follow Jesus Christ no matter the cost, including be humble enough to make covenants with Him that our Heavenly Parents set forth for Their children through Their Son's Church, which Church They provided for the benefit of Their children going through this mortal existence, even the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints? Are we willing to follow Jesus Christ's Divinely called prophets, including His living Prophet, Russell M. Nelson (Who is currently the Prophet at the time of this message)? Russell M. Nelson said,

"I promise that as you continue to be obedient, expressing gratitude for every blessing the Lord gives you, and as you patiently honor the Lord's timetable, you will be given the knowledge and understanding you seek. Every blessing the Lord has for you—even miracles—will follow" (April 2018).

- i. Will we persevere to journey towards knowing our Heavenly Parents and Jesus Christ and to be one with Them?

3) Microcosmic experience of being in a family (as prioritized from most important). This mortal life existence is a temple journey experience and there is no escape from that fact, but the journey is always gazing into your soul even when you sleep.

- a. Experience as a husband or wife.
- b. Experience as a mother or father.
- c. Experience as a grandparent.
- d. Experience as a son or daughter.
- e. Experience as other family.
- f. Experience as: Who is my neighbor? (Luke 10:36-37)

4) To fulfill our individual life missions.

- a. What are our gifts, capabilities, talents, potentials, and callings? Are we willing to seek to know who we were before we entered this mortal existence?
- b. Are we willing to proactively migrate, develop skills, learn, take time, sacrifice, and execute whatever necessary? Are we willing to love others as ourselves?
- c. What do we lack in behaviors, communication skills, and Christ-like attributes?
- d. Who are those within our sphere of influence who our Heavenly Parents have assigned to us to minister to?
- e. Have we received our patriarchal blessing, and do we strive daily to follow the revelations in that blessing or perhaps comprehend the deeper hidden messages?
- f. If we do not fully understand our missions, are we humble enough and sincere enough to pray and ask what our missions are and be ready to do our part no matter what those life missions are? Russell M. Nelson said in 2016 on the Hawaiian island of Oahu,

“Therefore, my first recommendation is to learn for yourselves who you really are. Ask your Heavenly Father, in the name of Jesus Christ, how He feels about you and your mission here on earth. If you ask with real intent, over time the Spirit will whisper the life-changing truth to you. Record those impressions and review them often, and follow through with exactness. I promise you that when you begin to catch even a glimpse of how your Heavenly Father sees you and what He is counting on you to do for Him, your life will never be the same!”

PART II

Ten Essential Reflection Principles to Know Today

1) * Reflections on Religion

To fully comprehend all the material presented, it is recommended that you review this document multiple times. Most of what you read in this section will become clearer after you read the section that contains my testimony. Allow the words in this document to become a part of you and fill each breath with purpose.

Heavenly Father provides us with messengers called prophets, because He loves us. Prophets are a great benefit to our well-being. Without prophets, we wander in the dark, life becomes a guessing game, and even the willing heart becomes vulnerable to the devil's ambitions for mankind's misery. Who are we to be as arrogant as the devil and prematurely assume our own path to our own defined exaltation in our mortal finite thinking? Therefore, Spiritualism when coupled with pride becomes an arrogant religion of lies upheld by pieces of truth to gratify a semi-thirsty soul who lacks value in their divine worth to temporarily numb their spiritual senses from the sting of actual spiritual death, which death comes from the fruit of the knowledge of good and evil, a logos discussion for another time. In this era of the Internet, advanced search tools such as artificial intelligence, and the amplified spiritual waves of love constantly being dispatched to every human heart as invitations to everyone from our Parents above, the grounds for professing ignorance are diminishing.

Jesus Christ said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me" (John 14:6). Unaltered pure truth is not relative, does not change to fit one's wishful thinking, does not bend to satisfy a creed or doctrine, but is absolute, eternal, universal, is virtuous and good, and complements all other truth. To believe otherwise is dishonest to oneself, to be a farce, disconnected from reality, a form of schizophrenia, and to turn off the flood gates to eternal progression, learning, peace, and maximum fulfillment.

Everyone, including those who have memories of before birth or had a near-death-experience still have agency to choose. Part of being fully responsible and qualifying for the highest degree of grace involves continuous diligent searching until the truth is discovered and embraced. Upon reaching this understanding, it is important to persist in learning and uncovering additional truths our Heavenly Parents are prepared to reveal.

There are many people who arrogantly discount religion after engaging with one, two, three, or so religions or churches and being unsatisfied with their experiences. There are those who claim to be the deep thinkers of the world, but discount the terminology of "God," because they arrogantly dismiss some of the Bible's poor translations or recognize the Bible's false doctrines and narratives from the ancient religious reforms of Kings Hezekiah and Josiah, or they recognize the preposterousness of the Nicene Creed or other philosophies of men.

Many others completely discount truth due to the successes of the devil's lavish marketing campaigns or even get burned or hurt by people who claim to be representing Jesus Christ or Deity. They may spend their entire life seeking, searching, and skimming over every church and religion possible without ever becoming familiar with their spiritual heritage or their Heavenly Parent's ultimate gifts for them. They are prone to yield to a purgatorial scarcity of spiritual progression. If a seeker is not willing to ask the Source of Truth, listen with a fully open mind, discern with complete humility and sincere prayer, search with unfaltering perseverance, and show appreciation for every morsel of truth they have already received with a revelatory testimony, then their efforts can be compared to headless chickens. Then there are those individuals who lack a comprehensive understanding of their own religion, particularly of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. They misinterpret doctrine, or who believe false doctrines they were taught even perhaps while at church on a Sunday, which led them to strange and dangerous roads of further confusion, darkness, and despair. A typical instance is the doctrine of mortal perfection, which entails the expectation of oneself or another achieving perfection while still in their mortal probationary state.

Speculatively, it is possible that some individuals were so faithful in pre-earth life that their mission was to seek truth without fully finding it, yet they received enough Divine recognition for their efforts and potential. Furthermore, it is conceivable that once such dedicated seekers have the opportunity in the post-mortal realm to hear the messages they sought, they would play a crucial role in disseminating this information to others. Yet again, humble seekers often receive significant revelatory knowledge in their pursuit, which testifies to the love of their Heavenly Parents who understand their heart's deepest desires. Nobody is forgotten. Nobody is left behind who does not want to be. Fear of rejection or even injury is another eternal principle we are expected to conquer to achieve an everlasting transcendence. Therefore, never give up, never.

While quoting Jesus Christ declaring to Joseph Smith in the First Vision, the Apostle Gerrit W. Gong says, “Left on our own, we quickly discover that there is none that doeth good, no, not one. We do understand, neither waiting to be told all things, nor doing everything on our own leads to happiness. On the one hand, those who wait for absolute inspiration find themselves paralyzed, sometimes susceptible to deception from uninspired sources. On the other hand, those who never seek Heavenly Father’s inspiration sometimes getting exactly what they thought they wanted. You know the phrase, be careful what you ask for. Choosing to trust in God takes faith. The best Guide of all as we seek to choose faith in every footstep is the whisperings of the Holy Spirit. Teaches Boyd K. Packer, ‘Once you really determine to follow that Guide, your testimony will grow and you will find provisions set out along the way in unexpected places, as evidence that someone knew that you would be traveling that way.’”

I do not know how this could be stated better.

Are we really to think that our Heavenly Parents abandoned Their children during the dark ages? No, there are plenty of accounts from honest and diligent truth seekers who prayed and received what they necessitated all throughout the world in all ages of mankind. All things are being weaved into a perfect pattern. Each of us was born precisely at the time we were intended to be born. God listens to the prayers of all children in all parts of the globe. Even those who lived during the dark ages will have an equal opportunity to accept or reject the messages, covenants, and privileges.

Russell M. Nelson said,

“All truth is part of the gospel of Jesus Christ. Whether truth comes from a scientific laboratory or by revelation from the Lord, it is compatible... Brigham Young so taught: ‘If you can find a truth in heaven, earth, or hell, it belongs to our doctrine. We believe it; it is ours; we claim it.’ There is no conflict between science and religion. Conflict only arises from an incomplete knowledge of either science or religion—or both... [Jesus Christ] has revealed the following promise, which may bring comfort to those who cannot find answers to all of their questions at this point in time. He said: ‘Yea, verily I say unto you, in that day when the Lord shall come, he shall reveal all things—Things which have passed, and hidden things which no man knew, things of the earth, by which it was made, and the purpose and the end thereof—Things most precious, things that are above, and things that are beneath, things that are in the earth, and upon the earth, and in heaven.’”

In anticipation of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ during our mortal existence, God is disseminating revealed truth globally. Concurrently, the Church of Jesus Christ is spreading worldwide as a significant aspect of this earth's evolutionary timeline. All revealed truths are linked to the progress of Jesus Christ's Church, which is to prepare for the next steps in this planet's development. Our gratitude for truth is constantly tested when we are presented with Divine resources, such as the Book of Mormon, temples, spiritual gifts, miracles, etc.

The definition of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is this: A magnificent gift of genuine incomprehensible magnitude from our Eternal Loving Heavenly Parents to bless all our lives with everything we need to achieve the highest degree of truth, law, and ascension possible in this mortal life for our own and our family's eternal welfare and being, and includes all revealed, discovered, and undiscovered truths no matter as revealed from a prophet or angel or even discovered in a lab, a classroom, another church or religion, off the street, in space, or from the depths of Hell itself. Every doctrine and practice that is true in any church or religion is part of the Church of Jesus Christ. It does not matter how trivial or exotic the truth is, if it is truth then it is of the Church of Jesus Christ, whether members or nonmembers of the Church desire it or not. If something is not true then it is not part of the Church, whether members or nonmembers of the Church desire it or not. It does not matter if a doctrine is stated in a creed, video, pamphlet, book, encyclopedia, or any resource, or if it was said falsely by someone you highly admire, in a respectable position, completely trust, or are deeply invested in; if it is not true, then it is not part of the Church and is to be left to the science-fiction entertainment world, and I do enjoy viewing sci-fi content for my chosen entertainment. Any questions? I hope so, because truth is what we are constantly searching for in every aspect of our lives to expand our minds and our world. Russell M. Nelson reminds us that the Gospel's restoration is an ongoing initiative. There is still so much for Jesus Christ to reveal, if we are faithful (see 1 Nephi 7:12). The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints really is preparing the world for the Second Coming of Jesus Christ.

The Church of Jesus Christ consists of a diverse group of people, each facing their own unique mortal challenges and weaknesses. However, inject concentrated truth into a people and see what happens. What you can label as bad folk then become good, good folk become better. Never abandon the truths you hold dear, but bring the truths to the table to share for all to benefit. If others hesitate about adopting truths you bring, you are still never to abandon any truth you know to be true, but you are to learn patience and perseverance.

We also need The Church of Jesus Christ for Priesthood keys and ordinances, for Prophets and Apostles, for a godly and orderly system to prove our truest desires, for Divine revelations, Divine assistance for maximum genuine ascendance, and for a true and undeniable source to discover who we each are in the universe before birth, during life, and our potential after the mortal experience.

One of my favorite parts is that the Church of Jesus Christ provides wonderful peaceful privileges to feel of God's love in the dedicated temples of the Church, which provides us with rest and super-charges our spirits. Just like taking a hot shower on a cold day, going inside a dedicated temple of the Church is like being showered on by the Holy Ghost, you feel you never want to leave. All these are extremely important and a mandatory foundation to everything that is most meaningful, fulfilling, best of everything, most satisfactory, and of course ultimate transcendent. Russell M. Nelson said, “Priesthood keys distinguish The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints from any other organization on earth. Many other organizations can and do make your life better here in mortality. But no other organization can and will influence your life after death.”

Therefore, acquiring a testimony about priesthood keys is crucial to living a peaceful and meaningful life.

God sets the terms of the non-negotiable covenants, not us. When we covenant with God, we are entitled to God's promises, which include strength, light, health, wisdom and intelligence, unadulterated truth, hope, genuine spiritual prosperity, angelic help, Divine intervention, eternal fulfillment, and the grandest adventure of one's mortal existence. God's chosen prophets are essential to overcome the devil's work, which is to detract us from the covenant path.

Without the priesthood and Plates of Brass, the Prophet Lehi's posterity would have dwelt in unbelief.

We cannot expect to receive more blessings if we do not genuinely express gratitude for what we already possess, such as modern Prophets, Apostles, ancient and modern scriptures, local priesthood leaders, temples, the Gospel Library, wholesome uplifting music, other sources inspired by the Light of Christ, etc. One of the special symbols of priesthood ordinances is that the ordinance must be offered by someone else, representing that we cannot save ourselves alone. Even when we partake of the sacrament emblems in a Sabbath meeting of the Church of Jesus Christ, we do not grab the sacrament tray from someone and partake, but we allow someone else to hold the emblems for us while we partake and then we in turn serve someone else.

Nobody can separate Jesus Christ from Jesus Christ's Own Church, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. If there is something you do not agree with, you must be humble enough to accept that you lack understanding and must pray for more understanding, but that you will also continue in faith in Jesus Christ. Like Simon Peter of old, when Jesus Christ asked, "Will ye also go away?" Peter responded, "Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God" (John 6:67-69). Likewise, there is nowhere else to go, nowhere in mortality where the love of God can be felt in such an immense intensity like inside the dedicated temples of the Church of Jesus Christ, it is powerful, well worth any sacrifice of any magnitude, humility, and pursuit of. Therefore, pray for and work with all your might to gain a testimony about every foundational truth: Jesus Christ, prophets and apostles, Russell M Nelson as His living Prophet, Joseph Smith Jr., as the Prophet of the Restoration of Jesus Christ's Church, the Book of Mormon, the temples, and our Heavenly Parents' love for you.

Gordon L. Treadway, a Seventy of the Church of Jesus Christ said,

"The Prophet [Russell M. Nelson] has said that there are only two things left to do before the Savior will come. All of the revelations, all of the signs of the times, the Prophet has said that there are only two things left. Did you know this? Two things left. One, we need to complete the gathering of Israel, however the Lord defines completing. Secondly, the Lord will then come.

That's it, and so we should be a little bit urgent. We should be in a little bit of a hurry to bring our brothers and sisters back among us."

Russell M. Nelson also said, "This gathering [of Israel] should mean everything to you. This is the mission for which you were sent to earth." Ponder about this as you study this message, and continue thinking about it as you go through your routines each day. Most recently and most important for everyone going through their mortal journey at this time, Russell M. Nelson said,

"Here is my promise to you: Every sincere seeker of Jesus Christ will find Him in the temple. You will feel His mercy. You will find answers to your most vexing questions. You will better comprehend the joy of His gospel."

Russell M. Nelson also said,

"When the laws of God are obeyed, wanted blessings will always result, not just maybe or sometimes. Divine law is dependable! Divine law is incontrovertible! The great privilege of studying God's creations builds in its students a reverence for life and a testimony that we are literally created by Deity. That reverence for our Creator represents true religion. The meaning of the word religion is literally 'to ligate' or 'to tie us once again' back to God."

Last, here is my message for anyone who has listened to false declarations about the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Note this, people such as John Dehlin are in themselves evidence that the historical records as contained in the Book of Mormon are true accounts. Nonetheless, you will feel of the special spiritual feelings, the love of God as you read my testimony. Just as nobody could refute the testimony of the First Vision, nobody can refute my testimony, except they be dishonest devils, the children of sin. I hope their hearts soften quickly, because the time is running out.

2) Reflections on Reincarnation

I acknowledge that for me to merely bring this topic up is unsettling for most people. Is reincarnation true or false? Most people will quickly shout out their claims, whether from logic, sheer belief, fads, tradition, deep thought, research, credible sources, or otherwise. First, the conversation can be altered by the definition of reincarnation being discussed. Not even Buddha preached reincarnation, but people interpret his words through certain doctrinal filters of reincarnation with the assumption of a type of reincarnation. Some of the Pharisees believed in a type of reincarnation doctrine, but the ancient Jews were also accused of abandoning the basics and seeking after doctrines that were not essential to their eternal well-being and too complex for their own mortal comprehension and within their ability to harmoniously weave such doctrines into their own finite neural pathways. These ancient Jews of the South Kingdom who won the political war also threw out the Asherah and Nehushtan from the Temple, changed the scriptural texts, eliminated references of the Mother and of the Messiah, put to death the Priests of Melchizedek and anyone who preached of the coming of the Messiah, and shut down all other temples outside the main Jerusalem Temple.

If you repeatedly ask God for something that is not right, eventually God will teach you a lesson by giving it to you. There are many obvious principles of reincarnation that are ridiculous and false. However, can someone ask God to have a re-do from their mortal life experience? Is the concept of parallel worlds or universes real? Is the life review enough to change a heart? How much must someone suffer to be refined and to what degree of refinement? Is there a guarantee for a child born in the Covenant to be saved? Why is it a sin for us to eternally judge a person? How can we know of every single law and principle we are to be eternally judged by? Must all our mortal business affairs be managed according to Celestial principles for us to be saved? I know enough to know that I just do not know everything there is for a glorified god such as our Heavenly Parents and Jesus Christ to know. I do know that I can know of these and infinitely more if I strive to do my very best to continue to appreciate every bit of truth bestowed to me and if I continue to pursue further truth in the appropriate principles of line-upon-line and grace-to-grace (see Doctrine & Covenants 93:11-15), along with showing appreciation for what I have already received by abiding by all those true principles. This is part of faith. Always cling to the truths you already possess, or you may discover that all the truths you possess become lost to you, and you become more like the beasts of the earth, less human, with all your interests focused on animal pursuits such as mortal pleasures, bodily reliefs, power and control, material gains, and other prideful behaviors. While bodily functions serve a purpose for all living beings, you lose your eternal potential as a son or daughter of an Eternal Mother and Father. You become like a fat mortal life squatter, putting on for display your disrespect and carelessness for your Heavenly Parents Who love you more than your arrogant mind could ever fathom unless you repent to start trying to love Them back.

Can we puncture the veil or disrupt the jamming frequencies to access our spirit's memories to remember life as angels, being with and assisting our ancestors? Definitely! Someone might even state that such things are not true, but I will give them the time and space to prove their argument of either fact or faith through either theory, possible manifestation, or however. Faith is not a bad thing, but becomes mere belief when deducting what could be true. This is the difference of a child believing in the Easter bunny or having faith in a living and breathing individual such as Jesus Christ Who is full of love, truth, and light. I am also one who keeps an open mind about everything until I receive a firm testimony through the medium of the Gift of the Holy Ghost, which special gift I received when I was eight-years-old, also by the laying on of hands by someone who had the authority from Jesus Christ, which in my case was my father. Until revealed to me by God through the spiritual gifts bestowed upon me, I will never discount something that I do not know, whether the subject is evolution, astronomy, out-of-body experiences, other worlds, spiritual matter, or whatever. Nonetheless, there are topics our Heavenly Parents would like us to prioritize, such as the eternal progression of our own families and their ministerial needs.

Regarding a particular topic of life after death, Alma the Younger told his son that "it was made known unto [him] by an angel," because he "inquired diligently of the Lord to know." Earlier, he also mentioned that he "fasted and prayed for many days that [he] might know these things of" himself, which were manifest to him by "the spirit of revelation." My message in stating that is this: We all have the privilege to do the same as Alma the Younger, and God wants to bless us with more knowledge, especially when we both diligently ask and with an honest heart show our complete appreciation for the knowledge and blessings already gifted to us. Yes, love, patience, and trust is required. The Prophet Russell M. Nelson has indicated that these are the days when God is revealing everything there is to know, so take advantage of such blessings. He also said in January 2021,

"Satan has marshaled his forces and is raging against the work of the Lord and those of us engaged in it. Because of the increasing dangers we face, our need for divine guidance has never been greater, and our efforts to hear the voice of Jesus Christ—our Mediator, Savior, and Redeemer—have never been more urgent. As I said shortly after I was called as President of the Church, the Lord is ready to reveal His mind to us. That is one of His greatest blessings to us. In our day, He has promised, 'If thou shalt ask, thou shalt receive revelation upon revelation, knowledge upon knowledge' (Doctrine and Covenants 42:61). I know He will respond to our pleadings."

3) Reflections on NDEs and Other People with PBMs

For those who are new to the subject, an NDE is a near death experience, which is the label we give to a story when someone's body clinically dies and is revived. In between the death and resuscitation, they may experience an out-of-body spiritual journey. This can range from simply seeing their body from outside their mortal eyes, meeting others who reside on the other side of the mortal veil, going on a voyage to witness events, or finding themselves being taught principles to improve some aspect of their life or to better minister to another's needs. This is not an extensive list of experiences.

A PBM is a pre-birth memory, which is the term we give to someone who remembers events from before birth. These memories can be held onto since birth or can be recalled later in life with an undeniable realization that includes a thought such as, "Oh yes, how could I have ever forgotten about that?" We will dive into this more.

Unlike some people who meticulously keep track, I really do not know the amount of near death experiences I have heard. The world of NDEs (Near Death Experiences) and PBMs (Pre-birth Memories) is also obscured by many deceivers with an agenda, most not consciously aware of their malicious intent to do so, but this world is full of mental illness, confusion, chaos, doubt, uncertainty, and conspiracy. Allow me to somewhat help you swim through these rough waters. I will do my best, but I still do recognize that some of the storytellers you may encounter really can be deceiving, and will require someone such as myself to help you discern their story until you acquire the confidence to accurately discern each one on your own with new spiritual gifts by the Divinely guided revelations from the Holy Ghost.

Do not assume I delusionally claim that valid NDEs are not real, never, but you will find sufficient explanations you seek as you continue searching these contents. However, it is important to remain open-minded, as what one may perceive as a genuine NDE might not be accurate. In addition, maintaining an open mind is another crucial key for the discernment process I will be describing. You will also discover that all valid NDEs will never contradict the Plan of Salvation, but are each evidences of the Plan. This is not saying what you know as the Plan of Salvation is key, because it is possible that you may misunderstand something about that Plan of Salvation. What I am saying is that truth is truth, no matter what, and you should always accept all truth at face value whenever revealed by the Holy Ghost. In an honest world where humans are always in touch with reality with no opposing illusive influences, this topic should be that simple and straightforward. Nevertheless, devilish influences transform this topic to be very complex, so continue diving into this message.

A strong critical thinker would ask themselves, “Who is the one in touch with reality, and who is disconnected from reality?” You should be asking yourself this about myself as well as yourself and every single NDE and PBM story you hear. Therefore, my objective is to help equip you with the spiritual tools you need to make an informed decision on who is in and out of touch with reality. As for the tools discussed, you can also make an informed decision, because “by their fruits ye shall know them” (Matthew 7:20). If you are truly committed to following all the counsel given in this message, you will obtain a testimony about this topic, and you will have a stronger conviction of God’s love for you as you read through my experiences.

Evidences of Love

This life is not easy, indeed, but we are each blessed with the heavenly opportunity-gifts to nudge us in the right directions, meticulously tailored to our own eternal refinement in the finest details beyond our ability to fathom, if we are truly willing to go to whatever length to get there. Are you? I strive to, but even I fall short at times in my vast mortal imperfections and the impatience I brought with me to this existence, but that is one of the many reasons we have Jesus Christ. Thanks to Jesus Christ, being human, frail, and imperfect is part of the fun experience, and eternal optimism definitely helps bring us relief from the mortal limitations and mistakes we make on a daily basis. The life worth living is hard, but it can also be fun, exciting, beautiful, harmonious, miraculous, adventurous, and filled with wisdom, diverse productive experiences, success, faith, and complete and total worth.

People tend to envy others who are gifted with such experiences, but with great value comes great price, which I speak both of the attended challenges and of greater accountability. Sure, this does not mean that the person has perfect understanding of every important eternal principle, but their hearts definitely have an opportunity for more pressing motive to be humble and improve themselves. Yet, contrary to this opportunity, discovering this trait in people who possess one of these special experiences is surprisingly rare; and such discovery is additional evidence to our agency and the Plan of Salvation's various degrees of Kingdoms of Glory and so forth. Whatever Kingdom of Glory we choose, we will be happy and content. Even I occasionally struggle to remember that most of the people around me do not share my unique perspective, informed by the memories and knowledge I possess from before this mortal life. This disparity can sometimes lead to pride and limited patience with others. I apologize for this and am endeavoring to retain my perspective without succumbing to the short-sighted views of others, but to be more understanding, especially as I engage in the conversations with fellow mortal brothers and sisters.

Our Heavenly Parents are ever-conscience about ALL Their children receiving mortal experiences. They dearly love each one of Their children, including and especially you. NDEs and PBMs are also evidence of this love and care. Generally, when someone has a true NDE and their mind becomes sensible again after they return to their mortal body, they experience excruciating pain and suffering beyond anything they ever thought imaginable or accompanied with some sort of serious life trauma. The NDE or PBM is a special gift to the recipient to help them overcome whatever tailored challenges they are meant to pass through for their mortal experience.

Cautionary Commentaries

The Plan of Salvation includes information about where we come from, why we are here, and where we can go after this life. Unless someone comes to this earth with a PBM that contains special knowledge of the Plan of Salvation such as what I am revealing to you through this message, or someone is given specific instructions through an NDE from God directly for their authorized sphere of influence, they should be cautious about what arrogant commentaries they share. They could possibly damn themselves further to Hell through the acts of damning weak individuals who seek answers to their deepest questions. I will elucidate this further as we go on.

The act of teaching each other about the raw observations and unfiltered principles learned from an experience is great. Sharing one's thoughts about their experience can be valuable, provided they acknowledge and disclose that these are personal reflections and that they may still be processing the experience or have chosen not to pursue further reflection for specific reasons. However, for someone to make a slothful arrogant conclusion from ignorance of the Plan of Salvation or from a riddle God presented to them that they have yet to solve is nothing short of horrible, damning, destructive, devilish, and displays to the world their true intelligence, self-worth, their heart's genuine desires, and what master they serve. While it may take a lifetime for them to realize, the entire experience is a massive riddle they are called to solve for themselves and their family, which will have seemingly infinite layers to it. They must ask themselves questions such as these:

- “What master do I intend to serve?”
- “What do I really care about”

- “Regarding my hypothesized conclusion, how much effort did I put into my conclusion, and did I sincerely ask God if that is the correct answer and receive an undeniable clear revelation that endows me with a completely confident firm testimony that it is the right path to follow?”
- “Did I thoroughly research as far as I possibly could before asking God and coming to my conclusion, or was there a point I felt tired and yielded in my search and chose to settle?”
- “What do I really know about the Plan of Salvation?”
- “Must I accept to resign my spiritual pursuits and live like an unaccountable animal?”
- “Do I really believe that everyone else should also believe this way even though God is offering grander gifts to us if we choose to pursuit those gifts?”

It is evident that most individuals may not have fully considered all aspects in the stories we encounter. However, it is important to remain patient with them, as they may be acting based on their current knowledge and genuine intentions. Having received Divine witnesses to my questions, I can assure everyone that each person can experience such revelations as I have or as Alma the Younger did as previously mentioned. You are just one mortal person and there is only so much you can research within an allotted mortal timeframe, and our Heavenly Parents recognize that, but that does not justify surrender. There is so much beyond your imagination, so never give up if you want the universe’s best opportunities available.

If you are someone who has previously preached with a dishonest heart as just explained, I urge you to stop now, take down any previous preachings from online, edit out the nonsense before re-posting, and seek to heal at least one person affected by your outdated behavior. Your efforts will also go much farther if you ask God for help in this process. You will see miracles! This is how someone repents. I do not expect my urging to hold any merit with anyone, but only God knows. God led me to present this message, so hopefully at least one person out there will benefit from this, which in turn can benefit many more people. I also expect this message to see masses of negative comments by those who play as puppets to the world of demonic spirits, which unclean spirits desire all our misery. If I do not see a bounteous amount of negative comments, I think I will be disappointed.

Please recognize that God in an actual corroborated way figuratively always gets multiple birds with one stone. People with genuine special experiences are a blessing to all of our Heavenly Parents' children here on earth when they share their testimony in purity and humility like I am doing here with you. However, just as one-third of all our spirit siblings rebelled against our Heavenly Parents right in front of Them, being surrounded by Their perfect love, people who have these experiences can also be a devilish hinderance to our Heavenly Parents' Plan of Salvation for Their children. Do not be one of these devils in the flesh. If you have been, if you have not been completely honest, or taken an arrogant approach to the processing of your experience, please forget your ego and just repent. Just as Uncle Ben told Peter Parker, "With great power, comes great responsibility." Your influences, both good and bad, reach through eternity, but can be turned to honey through the Atonement of Jesus Christ.

Inconsistencies in NDE & PBM Processing

People who are blessed with the gift of an indisputable NDE or PBM can be extra prone to being spiritually sensitive and can have a hyper-spiritual thirst to seek out spiritual things. Many of these spiritually sensitive people who have legitimate experiences end up following paths that are filled with confusion and counter-productive activity. They may join in practices that involve unfamiliar spirits to guide them in paths that fill their curiosity with mystical-yet-worthless information to satisfy their craving of the unknown. They are like the Jews of old who developed “blindness, which blindness came by looking beyond the mark” (Jacob 4:14). Yet, there are some who lean towards humility and constantly look for truth and try hard to fight through the fluff of devilish distractions and arrogant deceitful fabrications.

The spiritually thirsty soul who carries special memories with them through mortality or who experience such an awakening as a near-death-experience are bombarded mostly with the biased commentaries of others who choose to follow devilish paths to numb and delude their decision for giving up the fight for seeking the best eternal truths while they remain in their mortal state. They can become more arrogant, more devilish. Perhaps, like the ancient Deuteronomist reforming Jews, many Plan of Salvation concepts have never crossed their minds such as the real possible pursuit of seeing God while still in the flesh.

Whenever I hear someone who was blessed with such a special gift like an NDE or PBM, especially those who had the special privilege of meeting or remember being with our Heavenly Parents or Jesus Christ, then they add their arrogant conclusions of anti-religion as though they now know of every religion and church inside-out, my mind humorously, yet remorsefully, tends to immediately think of the character of Pinocchio in the animated Halloween special of Shrek as the possessed Pinocchio is climbing onto the ceiling, twists his head around and [I will leave out the ectoplasm description to avoid too much laughter amidst a more serious discussion]. Usually, the person points out that there was no mention of religion, but they felt God’s unconditional love for them without reservation, so they decided on their own that going to church or practicing their previous Christian religion was a waste of time.

Regarding such demonically influenced individuals, I am going to break down their thought process for you. Due to previously having doubts about their worthiness, followed by experiencing this beautiful ambience of being wrapped in God's love, they conclude they are already entitled to enough grace from Jesus Christ no matter any possible future accountability. Therefore, they believe they have seen every significant thing there is to see on the other side, they know what to expect, they enjoyed their time there and wait anxiously to be there again, they now have absolutely no worry about death or future judgement, they have all the answers they will ever need, so they settle to be content with this state of mind and plan out the rest of their God-granted mortal existence without any further thought to worry about consequences until the day arrives that they return to that paradisaical spirit realm they experienced in their NDE or PBM. They refuse to listen to any source that preaches self-improvement, opportunities for spiritual progression, or serving others as Jesus Christ did, because they now live a stress-free, light-hearted, and hedonistic life.

Despite their short-sided conclusions from this miraculous gift God gave them, such an experience never eliminated the purposes of their mortal experience and their gift of agency. Such people are displaying their exercise of their agency, but I hope they repent without procrastination and seek after better things, a more exalted sphere and journey than what they witnessed in their experience. They listen to the inspirational channels of devils mingled with scripture. For such people who believe such hellish doctrines of unaccountability, selfishness, and arrogance, you may guess how sad our Heavenly Parents and Jesus Christ must feel towards such individuals who mock the great sacrifice of Jesus Christ for them, but our Parents obviously still love them, and Jesus Christ still advocates for them, but also according to their truest desires.

As for such individual's desires, the NDE or PBM also provided the perfect opportunity for the individual to prove to themselves what degree of laws they are willing to abide. Just as you can be in-tune with the God of Love through the special spiritual gift given to you to help you navigate this life, you can also be in-tune with the forces of evil, which are real and can influence you like a poltergeist's puppet controlled with strings just as we see playing out with these individuals. Unless they repent, they will never know what it means to be one with God, which is the ultimate freedom and brings universal exaltation beyond what our ludicrous mortal cognitive ability can grasp. Our Father's name is Liberty. In addition, Russell M. Nelson said, "A covenant made with God should be regarded not as restrictive but as liberating."

Something to ponder when thinking about what Jesus Christ said,

"Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light" (Matthew 11:28-30).

Latter-day Saint NDEs

I enjoy listening to near-death-experiences at night before I sleep (She does not know it, but Paula Weisner got me into this). I confess, my favorite NDEs to listen to are those who are already members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, because the experience seems to always be full of wonderful things, sacred temple things, things that ascend, things that enlighten and edify.

Many of the NDEs experienced by members of the Church of Jesus Christ are scenarios where Jesus Christ Himself leads the person around and shows them many sacred events. Many of these events include the Council in Heaven, the Fall of our first parents, the life of Jesus Christ and His Atonement, His resurrection from the dead, His introduction by the Father to the boy Joseph Smith, and more.

One NDE I also love is from a woman who saw her brother who passed away years before. Her brother, not speaking about the Spirit World, but about the temple covenants and ordinances as found within the dedicated temples of the Church of Jesus Christ, said to her, "See, it's real!" In another event, the woman's mother also saw this brother in the Temple, and he said to his mother, "See, it's real!" This story will have more relevance as you continue on in this message.

Eternal Destination Riddles

One of the purposes of this life is that God wants us to use our agency with the tools given to us to figure things out for ourselves. Whenever someone receives the opportunity in their NDE experience to ask God what is the best religion, the response is always given in this riddle, "The best religion is the religion that brings you closest to Me." I really appreciate that answer, because it requires the person to work with pure humility to seek and find, requires much thought and effort without laziness, allows the person to maintain their agency by striving with faith to fulfill their life's purposes, and provides the person with the perfect opportunity to know for themselves in their final life review what their heart truly desires without someone simply giving them all the answers and eliminating all their requisite effort. However, most of these people, unfortunately, still do come to an indolent and arrogant conclusion as though the NDE automatically grants godly authority to dictate universal truths. Therefore, if you are a listener to these special stories, speaking of only genuine experiences, and you choose to proceed to hear them out, that is good. As you do so, I again remind you to realize that any pure experience is never in a contradictory state with the revealed Plan of Salvation or Plan of Happiness. If it really did happen and it does not conform to your understanding of the Plan of Salvation, you must even analyze what you understand about the Plan of Salvation. And yes, it is also possible that the storyteller is struggling to remember everything accurately, but most likely they are trying their best.

YouTube contains many thousands of NDE stories now. I was listening to a video of David Suich who claims to have studied about a thousand NDEs at the time. He did withhold some common occurrences, which occurrences I was hoping to hear his input. Overall, I still really liked his summaries, except for one commentary I disagreed with. Unfortunately, this commentary composed most of his video, which is his interpretation on the statement God tells the NDE survivors, "The best religion is the religion that brings you closest to me." He prematurely interprets this as any religion goes. This reminded me of a time a missionary asked the Apostle Dallin H. Oaks for advice about the common rebuttal heard in Thailand, "All religions teach us to be good." Dallin H. Oaks immediately responded, "Sounds like the Devil himself." Do you not believe that the devil is capable and determined to create his own religions for us to follow? Perhaps, you need a testimony of the devil. In a world where people have developed a dopamine responsive expectation to receive everything immediately, we are still expected to have patience and full mental exertion.

Some deny all church activity or any form of organized religion and choose to find God through their own ways like David Suich, through spiritualism, whether that be exclusively through meditation (which is a good thing to do), going to the mountains or the sea (which are also good things to do), or however else. At this level of thinking, we become similar to the beasts of the earth, which eat, digest, and sleep. The beasts are happy in their sphere, and should we also not be happy in our sphere? Do we simply only have the potential of that of a beast of this earth? Adam was baptized in the Garden of Eden to show his commitment to keeping all the commandments of God. However, even Jesus Christ was baptized to show us the way and obedience to our Heavenly Parent's commandments. Jesus Christ is perfect. Are we better than Jesus Christ so that we have no need of baptism or to keep God's other commandments? Do we not know that Jesus Christ taught of temple ordinances to the thousands on the mountains? Did not Jesus Christ tell us to follow Him, to be one with Him as He is one with the Father, to be whole? Obviously, we all fall down from time to time, perhaps even daily, or even hourly, hence the humble need to constantly accept Jesus Christ's gifts offered to us. Welcome to the mortality experience. Yet, when we purposely fall short without striving to improve ourselves daily and think we can consider changing another day, or perhaps when more convenient, our obedience to this devilish inspiration is a mockery to Christ's sacrifice for us and we accelerate our calamitous regression. Therefore, today is the day to bring Jesus Christ into our lives to the max.

Did Jesus Christ not say, "I am the way, the truth, and the life"? Or, how about this: "The truth shall make you free"? You can review the Reflections on Religion section again from a prior page regarding the definition of the Church of Jesus Christ, religion, and truth. I wish everyone could have the pre-birth memories I carry around with me in my mortal existence, such memories also bring the memories of the feelings in those places, which are felt most strong within the dedicated temples of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Remember the common riddle God gives to people with NDEs about religion? Oops, did I just blurt that out... Spoilers! I have also felt of those feelings of love strongly at the Smith family farm in Palmyra, New York, in the Sacred Grove, and on the Hill Cumorah. These sacred spaces are like Aurora Borealis in the secluded night sky absent of light pollution, except as though the lights were always present in a particular location. There are times the northern lights appear dim and distant, but within view. Then there are times when the lights brighten up everything in the valley with rainbow colors in view, and the ribbons of light jumping all around like an unfurled flag waiving and blowing viciously. Yet, to better fit in this comparison, the lights would always have to be present just as the supernatural love is always present in these sacred dedicated temples of Jesus Christ's Church.

We have the privilege to enjoy the Latter-day Saint testimonies of Jeffrey R. Holland (April 2024 General Conference) and David B. Haight (October 1989 General Conference) who both had NDEs as Apostles of Jesus Christ. They both returned with a strong sense of urgency for the work of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Yes, there were things revealed to each of them that they were commanded not to reveal. For those NDE survivor individuals who asked God what religion or church is the best and were answered to join with the organization that brings them closest to God, these two Apostles as mortal beings, knew and know God intimately as another knows their best friend. They are true Apostles, special witnesses of Jesus Christ, called by Jesus Christ Himself to testify to the world of Jesus Christ and as a Special Witness of the reality of His resurrection, mission, and love for us all. How sad life would be and what chaos would cover the earth if God did not call messengers to bring order, peace, guidance, opportunity, and light.

Like in NDEs, PBMs, or in dedicated holy spaces of Jesus Christ's Church, can God's love be felt in other churches? Yes, to a much smaller degree, and as long as the discussion remains focused on Jesus Christ and the truths that follow His works and teachings without distortion. In addition, Jesus Christ's name is also interpreted many ways in many languages throughout the world, which I will reserve for a future document. The primary role of the Holy Ghost is to witness of Jesus Christ, Heavenly Father, and Heavenly Mother. After knowing this, you may begin recognizing the motives behind the practice of other Christian denominations striving to charismatically concentrate exclusively on Jesus Christ in their worship, because they are trying to keep the spiritual energy levels high, which is good. "Praise the Lord" is constantly heard shouted through the halls, which is good, so I also add my praise, "Praise our Lord Jesus, indeed brothers and sisters!" Nonetheless, if we can inject the Gift of the Holy Ghost into their congregations somehow, they can experience this exuberant energy in a much greater abundance while connecting Jesus Christ to every aspect of their lives. They would gain a higher purpose to live their religion every hour of every day of their lives. What a blessing they can enjoy if they so choose. Hence, this is one reason why the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has missionaries, so let them in and do not send them off to the stable.

Developing Discernment

Now, a word for everyone else. Nobody can just take the word of any person claiming to have experienced a marvelous experience or beyond-earthly memory as fact. The claims are all over the radar. Not all these experiences are authentic. Some of the claimed near-death-experience stories are actually adventurous lucid dreams the person had while they were unconscious, but even some of those dreams were inspired, yet not all. There are even times when a traumatized person goes out of consciousness into the dream world, but then their body dies and enters the spirit realm. When they return to a conscious state, their memories become jumbled up in between experiences of the dream world and spirit world. Other times, the person enters the spirit world, then returns to their body in a dream state. Some of what people claim to be pre-birth memories are delusions. Someone may have a psychedelic dream that is influenced by things their spirit remembers from before birth. Hence, the circle of NDE and PBM experiences is chaotic and requires stern and detailed spiritual discernment. Without the spiritual gift of discernment from God, someone attempting to understand this mess is destined to be “driven with the wind and tossed” (see James 1:6) around like chaff (see also Mormon 5:16).

The secular world has approached NDE stories with various categorizing methods. It is good they perceive there are differences in the stories. However, they appear to obviously still lack the veracity touchstone.

I will give a clue, spiritual matters originating from God cannot be easily and accurately interpreted by a carnal mind that is not actively connected with the rare God-given gift of spiritual eyes that can see into the Divine dimension in which the NDE was experienced. Again, obtaining this gift is possible, but not a pursuit that can be fully explained in a document such as this. However, I will reveal a handful of key requirements needed to acquire this special gift.

The gift requires a focused spiritual mind combined with an articulate spiritual gift of discerning and interpreting spiritual places, actions, words, social settings, beings, feelings, and more; which power to exercise can only be acquired through the means of God's authorized and unassumed priesthood power and the appropriate faith in God to unlock the keys of such power. Without this gift, the attempt of individuals categorizing such stories can be labeled as mere hobby and can even cause someone's mind to become disconnected from reality. Constant spiritual mentorship through the revelatory assistance of the Holy Ghost is necessary to develop and polish the gift, keep them anchored in reality, and prevent subtle cognitive distortion through artificial feel-good mental pollution. Just as someone with a degree in astronomy based on the Nicene Creed's Big Bang Theory can adopt other false doctrines that support their faith, they will constantly find that they have to climb the walls of reality to maintain their belief system even as new scientific discoveries reveal a surplus of actual truths about reality. Did I just claim that the world of career astronomers is full of schizophrenics? I digress.

If you struggle with the discernment I speak of, here I will attempt to give you one of the most practical and effective tools you can use to at least try to crawl through the labyrinth. However, you will still also require the gift of spiritual sensitivity, coaching and practice, reviewing this document multiple times, daily diligent spiritual studies that lead you to seek the face of Jesus Christ, sincere and faithful prayer, making and keeping the right covenants with God per God's terms, and more.

Another evidence of God's love, everyone born in this mortal life comes with at least one spiritual gift to lead them to the light and truth. If God has blessed someone with the gift to genuinely discern PBMs and NDEs even before they receive the initial Gift of the Holy Ghost through covenant, it is only because they were granted a spiritual gift as a boost to ultimately lead them to Jesus Christ and His Church, which will endow them with the keys to accessing all knowledge of the Plan of Salvation even to know their Heavenly Parents. To know our Heavenly Parents is life eternal, "which gift is the greatest of all the gifts of God" (Doctrine & Covenants 14:7). After a brother or sister accesses and understands priesthood power through obtaining the Gift of the Holy Ghost, they will finally begin their journey to successfully catalogue according to the principles of eternal truths, then the NDEs start to have actual meaning in their lives beyond simply being wonderful stories with rollercoaster feelings. I am uncertain whether my command of the English language can fully convey the intricacy of this endeavor, but I will make every effort to do so. The person will also begin to understand when Joseph Smith said,

"Our minds being now enlightened, we began to have the scriptures laid open to our understandings, and the true meaning and intention of their more mysterious passages revealed unto us in a manner which we never could attain to previously, nor ever before had thought of" (Joseph Smith History 1:74).

First, sincere prayer is essential. I promise that God answers every single prayer with a love greater and higher than the finite limitations this world allows us to fathom. Pray to Father in Heaven and in the name of Jesus Christ Who is your Advocate with the Father. You have to be fully committed with real intent and humility to follow and obey every path God directs you to.

Second, as you review NDE and PBM stories, record how you felt at different times of the person's story. You may have to pause in the moment as you realize you are being filled with God's love. Compare the stories and the associated feelings. Did that part of the story make you feel of the Divine Love the person felt at the time of the occurrence, or did it simply remind you of a time when you felt of that love when listening to someone else's story? When you were reminded of that other time, can you feel that same love now, or is it still just a memory of the feeling? You can then do things like compare the strength of that love in various stories and times and combine the comparisons with the events, discussions, and other observations from the story.

Third, recognize that there are diverse feelings that attend certain types of stories. You must always distinguish between stories or parts of the stories with the stories or parts of stories that fill you with God's love. Just because you feel a strong spiritual feeling does not signify that the feeling is from God. You are mingling with the realm of spirits, and not all spirits are friendly. There are spirits that evoke feelings of duped friendliness with the objective to indoctrinate the listener into strange dark paths that lead to unexceptional contentment and deluded misery. On the positive side, you may even have an increase of experiences with your own ancestors, which can further be discussed afterward. Yet, even these experiences can become confused with counterproductive influences. In summary, you will not just experience white, or only white or black, but the feelings do jump around as you proceed through different stories. You can even feel God's love as the person is telling of their genuine experience, but then get a depressed dark feeling later as they give their commentary of how they processed the experience.

Overall, the most important feeling to note is the strong awe-inspiring and consuming love of God, which will fill you with love and complete security. If you still struggle, to help you understand feelings that may seem both new, but familiar at the same time, I will give you a quote from a past Prophet named Gordon

B. Hinckley:

“How do we recognize the promptings of the Spirit? That which is of Christ doth edify, and if we have that feeling of edification, then we may know that the Holy Spirit, the Holy Ghost, is speaking to us. If we are in an attitude of prayer, if we are in an attitude of anxiously seeking the direction of the Spirit, we will receive it. There isn’t any doubt in my mind concerning this.”

As you review NDE and PBM stories, notice patterns such as: Does this spiritual feeling arouse a desire to want to get up and serve others? Was there any influence to encourage you to want to improve yourself virtuously and have a greater eternal perspective? Have you become a better brother or sister to your family, to your neighbor? Does this influence you to seek out a higher spiritual life, perhaps to seek out your Heavenly Parents and Jesus Christ and invite Them into your life? Did you know that you can feel close to Them in the dedicated temples of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints? In fact, I can give you a guarantee that you will not feel of God’s love with such an intensity as you will in these dedicated temples while in your mortal body. You can also experience such a feeling by either still having access to your pre-birth memories or you enter the spirit realm later through death. Nonetheless, there are even times within the dedicated temples when you can feel of God’s love stronger than in an NDE or PBM. Ready for the challenge? Attending these dedicated temples often can also help with developing a stronger spiritual discernment, especially since unclean spirits of perdition are not allowed to enter these sacred and holy spaces that are dedicated in a special way by certain authorized priesthood keys.

Fourth, if you want to critically crank up the spiritual volume of these things and more, you must walk the Covenant Path that our Heavenly Parents set forth for us through Jesus Christ's Church. The further you progress on the path, the louder and closer the eternities come to you even while you are still in the flesh. This is essential to entering in the dedicated temples. Yes, you can eventually even have the privilege to meet God in this mortal life. What an amazing experience to share with your posterity!

Fifth, as you experience greater spiritual things, it is nice to have someone who you can share those experiences with. This may be a spouse, parent, sibling, or a friend who also enjoys similar spiritual discussions. Sharing allows you to re-live those beautiful feelings of God's love, but strive to be doing the right things in the right places at the right times and you will continue to grow line-upon-line and precept-upon-precept.

Sixth, you will want to learn more about true faith, which is a principle of action. This also includes learning about, understanding, and fully embracing the attributes of our Heavenly Parents and Jesus Christ. This may require abandoning creeds you have held onto all your life. Prayer is the most important aspect of faith, so you may even begin by praying to ask God for faith or more faith. Spirits that desire your misery work hard to lead people astray from their divine potential and persuade people not to pray, so pray, especially when you do not want to pray.

Exercising Discernment

Yes, hearing of NDEs and PBMs has a greater impact on people like me, because we can remember the places and feelings they speak of, which means this spiritual tool can come easier for us. That does not imply that other people cannot develop this same gift and to a similar intensity. Nor does this imply that all people with PBMs live righteously. The more you exercise this authentic spiritual sense, the more sensitive you can become to this approach. However, you will also notice that the more rebellious, angry, negative, and depressed you become in nature, the more numb you become to these feelings.

Therefore, the more you lean towards the spiritual feelings that resonate from those spirits that desire you to feel confused, light-hearted about sacred things, content with what you have, depressed, miserable, and unimportant, you will find you become trapped in a positive-feedback loop, which is the opposite of positive, but is a taste of Hell itself.

If you continue in the direction of God's love, which includes hope, faith, charity, forgiveness, genuine humility or being in touch with reality; over time, you will notice patterns entering your mind and even your life from the eternities, and depending upon your heart's eternal desires and level of contentment, you will eventually come to know that our Heavenly Parents' Plan of Salvation is true and that Their Beloved Son Jesus Christ's Church is your way to that ultimate ascension, to become One with Them, to really know Them even more than you knew Them before your mortal experience. Continue on with this message and I will explain further.

I caution you this: As you are progressing on this path, evil influences will gather and try to discourage you, distract you, and do all within their power to pull you away from this eternal productivity.

Therefore, to overcome this, you will require prayer to Heavenly Father and in the name of Jesus Christ.

Make sure to pray and ask for guidance and the humility to accept God's will for you. If you do desire, make sure to tell Heavenly Father that you love Him and want more than anything to please Him. Jesus Christ's Church equals never being content with just a portion, but appreciating any portions you receive and receiving more, because eternal truth is infinite. Perhaps, you are seeing a pattern already?

The Crossroads

When you purchase a new circuit breaker, one method to know that it has not been used or tampered with is that the switch is still somewhat firmly in the middle position, between the off and on, but not like when a circuit is flipped, which wobbles between the off and on position. After the purchase, you install the breaker and flip it on, which it can never be reset back to that firm middle position again.

Can someone be happy without the Church of Jesus Christ? The answer is a big yes, just as my dog can be happy. However, the Prophet Joseph Smith Jr. points out “Before you joined this Church you stood on neutral ground. When the gospel was preached, good and evil were set before you. You could choose either or neither. There were two opposite masters inviting you to serve them. When you joined this Church you enlisted to serve God.

When you did that you left the neutral ground, and you never can get back on to it.”

I am not preaching the things you would need to know as a new member of Jesus Christ's Church, no, because I will leave that up to the missionaries God called to teach you. My words are meant to be a supplement to what they will be teaching you. They will teach you about the Prophet Joseph Smith, the Plan of Salvation, the Atonement of Jesus Christ, the commandments, and more. I also hope that my message will influence you to seek out additional resources to dive deeper into subjects that touch your heart.

Messengers

What about all the Jews, Muslims, and Buddhists who have had an NDE and met both Jesus Christ and the Father? What about the prophets who have all proclaimed that there is no other name by which men can be saved, except by the name of Jesus Christ? What about the importance of the covenants provided in the temples of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints? What about the messages contained here?

Our Heavenly Parents loved us so much that They gave us Their only Begotten Son, to offer us our most righteous desires, to be like Them, to know Them, to know what They know, to have what They have, to experience what They experienced, and to love as They love. What greater method is there to teach us about our Heavenly Parent's Plan of Salvation through faith in Jesus Christ than by providing us children in this temporal world with true authorized messengers who are special witnesses of Their Son? I say "authorized," because they have the exclusive permission from Mother and Father to speak to the world collectively on Their behalf.

I do have a testimony that these Apostles and Prophets were called directly by Jesus Christ, they know Him personally, and they are for our sole benefit to also know of Him. Thanks be to these prophets and the clarity they inject into the world, so I also know that Jesus Christ was resurrected, that our Eternal Parents love us, and we each can choose to listen to Them, to know Them, and to prove to our own selves what we really desire. Is one of us a brainwashed zealot with our head in the clouds, perhaps both of us, or are we both honest in heart with the same goal to attain to the ultimate status our Heavenly Parents work hard for us to achieve? You know what to do, so continue on with the message.

4) Kohlberg's Model of Moral Development & the Kingdoms of Glory Reflections

This section is Lawrence Kohlberg's Theory of Moral Development, which involved thousands of thorough psychological studies. His system matches very close with the three Kingdoms of Glory, which is not a theory. His research shows us how people begin making choices based on consequences of punishment and reward. At the next stage of one's moral development, they begin to make choices based on societal norms and culture. This can include methods of communication, ego, emotional decisions, how a community circumvents laws and develops their own societal methods, manners and etiquette, and more.

The third level is only barely reached by 20% of older adults. This group begins to grasp onto the concept of principles. If you are one of God's sheep reading this, you are most likely in this group. They act according to what their conviction believes is right and wrong, even if society behaves otherwise. They begin to comprehend the reason why society requires laws and order. As they progress, they will eventually come to the conclusion of universal laws that govern right and wrong, sacrifice and service. This degree of the third level is rare for even the 20% of older people to achieve.

Now, compare these to the various kingdoms as found in Doctrine and Covenants section 76. Even though his research is thoroughly proven, my “theory” as to why so-called professionals still label his research as “theory” involves the fact that even many of the most scholarly people today still struggle to penetrate this deep of cognitive intelligence and are not ready to accept that they may not be as shrewd as they thought of themselves. Good luck to our universities and our society’s army of mostly senseless psychoanalysts.

5) Reflections on Angels

Although, most people tend to dismiss modest angelic encounters, you may recollect a time when driving and you received a strong impression to do something odd. The unexpected communication may have been to stop, turn, or do not go yet. One person I knew received multiple impressions, but hesitated to listen due to how unusual it was and in violation of normal driving regulations, so they eventually heard someone actually yell at them, which barely saved their life. One person had an NDE who saw an angel sabotage her car, causing it to break down, which saved her life. Or how about those times you personally experienced barely staying on the road or avoiding a major collision?

This subject is simple, important, miraculous, and comforting to have a testimony about. Having seen angels from beyond the veil even in this mortal existence, I can testify that there are angels both seen and unseen. In fact, we each probably see angels every day and do not even realize such people are angels from the other side of the veil. They look and walk like everyone else. This life really is a stage. Our mortal experience can feel like being on Candid Camera, and we all usually do not even realize the humor in this setup of an experience until we see our own life from beyond the veil.

After reading about angels ministering to the children in 3 Nephi 17, the Prophet at the time, Ezra Taft Benson in 1989 said, "I promise you, dear children, that angels will minister unto you also. You may not see them, but they will be there to help you, and you will feel of their presence."

The duty of angels is to maintain an extremely delicate balance, to persuade, guide, protect, and build up, all while allowing us to experience our mortality and agency. We are never alone. Some angels come and go, especially when we undergo overwhelming trials. Similarly to replaying media or memories of our childhood, we can find ourselves seeking out media and memories from times we experienced hardships. Usually, we do not do this purposefully, but then discover our memories flooded by extraordinary spiritual familiarities that we became numb to at the time of the challenges. Associated with these may be the spiritual loving signature feelings of a vast number of angels who were assigned to help us through those moments. Angels can help with miracles, gut feelings, dreams, thoughts, and can even create walls to save us from dangers, whether such walls be in our breathable air or in the waters.

While little children receive extra angelic help, especially if they are sealed after birth or they are born in the covenant through a temple sealing of the Church of Jesus Christ, each person still receives a tailored experience to their eternal needs. The topic of angels ties into your purpose here on earth, because the keys are similar: optimism, gratitude, patience, humility, faith, hope, charity, forgiveness, prayer, fasting, infinite learning, talent acquisition, Heavenly offered covenants, agency, sacrifice, integrity, and so forth.

The more we adopt such aspects in our lives, the more stimulus of Jesus Christ's heavenly hosts we encounter and become entitled to.

Even now, you and me become numb to constant angelic forces around us. However, let us never become numb to the devilish malevolent influences that are also present here on this earth and try to hurt us and our families, so that we may recognize such presence and work to rid our lives of these feelings. Angels will lead us to greater things if we allow.

Not long ago, I gathered the children into the living room and told them of a time I chose not to react the usual way through certain exorcism practices as in the past when a dark spirit confronted me. The story is as follows: One night, I was woken up by the presence of an unwelcomed spirit. I smiled and gathered love in my voice through the conjuring of memories and doctrines of God's love. A genuine smile is a wonderful weapon against any force of negativity. I stated how I thought that they may believe that their Heavenly Parents do not love them, but have abandoned them, yet how that was not true whatsoever, because Their Heavenly Parents still did love them and want more than anything for them to stop these evil behaviors and return to Them. I continued: At the same time, they may believe that Jesus Christ hates them, but that also is not true, because He actually only has feelings of love for them too and wants to help them if they are willing. The feelings of God's love filled the room as a testimony from the Holy Ghost about God's love for all God's children. Then, I mentioned that after that night, our family did not experience an attack from the malevolent unseen world for many months, as though a wave of love was sent out from our home. As I told this story to the children, the feelings of God's love continued to fill our hearts at the moment and testified that this was true.

In addition, the Prophet's wife Wendy Nelson teaches us that when we keep our covenants and the more we attend the dedicated temples of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and do the work for those who have gone beyond this mortal life, the more we can call upon those grateful spirits in times of need. Do you have children? How much do you love your children? Would you not want an army of angels to look after your children just as the children were protected in Cokeville, Wyoming?

6) Reflections on the Accusations of my Character

I am learning quickly to “neither cast ye your pearls before swine,” so I have not disclosed any pearls too private and sacred here that are not for the world, but I save such sacred details for times that the Holy Ghost warrants through inspiration; and I hope none of you reading this are offended swine, but let us not allow that from preventing the honest and righteous seeker of truth from obtaining access to this content.

However, for those who genuinely seek the truth, my hope is that this message will resonate with the heart of at least one individual, as a special message from heaven to address their desperate needs in humility and providing an answer to their prayers. Just as a refiner’s fire, you can also be assured that these words came to you at the right appointed time by your loving Heavenly Parents. Again, I am simply trying to comply with my life mission out of love, because I also feel of our Heavenly Parents’ love for me. I hope I am successfully passing along encouragement and enthusiasm to anyone in need today, to lift your spirit into the realm of grander hope, increased optimism, stronger determination to endure, and enhanced faith to overcome whatever you have been called to face in your brief mortal experience. If your spirit needs a stronger battery charge, continue on with this message, and if possible, go to a dedicated temple of the Church of Jesus Christ. If you cannot enter in, at least walk around the grounds outside the Temple.

I am not perfect. My wife wishes I was perfect (touché). Many people even in the Church of Jesus Christ while disregarding all other doctrines will singularly preach from the Sermon on the Mount, “Therefore I would that ye should be perfect even as I, or your Father who is in heaven is perfect.” However, the older translations such as from the Septuagint would say for us to be complete or whole in integrity and health, to become one with God as Jesus Christ is one with the Father, which can be referenced by Jesus Christ’s Great Intercessory Prayer and has meaningful significance at the veil of the Temple. I then think of people like in 3 Nephi 8:1:

“We know our record to be true, for behold, it was a just man who did keep the record—for he truly did many miracles in the name of Jesus; and there was not any man who could do a miracle in the name of Jesus save he were cleansed every whit from his iniquity.”

Yet, we must not forget the complementary important principle in Jacob 4:6-7:

“We search the prophets, and we have many revelations and the spirit of prophecy; and having all these witnesses we obtain a hope, and our faith becometh unshaken, insomuch that we truly can command in the name of Jesus and the very trees obey us, or the mountains, or the waves of the sea. Nevertheless, the Lord God showeth us our weakness that we may know that it is by his grace, and his great condescensions unto the children of men, that we have power to do these things.”

This is a topic we can discuss in great length. The point is this: Jesus Christ is anxious to forgive us much easier than most people realize and He expects us to forgive ourselves. "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors," which includes our own selves. Otherwise, we reject the great eternal sacrifice of Jesus Christ and become like a certain modern sect of Jews who in a state of mental and spiritual Hell routinely whip themselves each day for their sins, wasting away their lives and opportunities to minister to others' needs, especially family needs. God gave us our weakness that we may be humble, so let us be humble, happy, and work at and pray to be more optimistic about our mortal experience.

Unless conceived of the Father as Jesus Christ was, every human has and will constantly make mortal mistakes. They will fall down, lose their car keys, eat too much sweets, say hurtful things to others without much thought, drive too fast or too slow, stub their toes, stay up too late at night, forget to use a blinker when changing lanes, hammer their thumbs, run a stop sign, give a friend bad advice, skip a Sunday meeting on vacation, mix ingredients, forget to put on deodorant, forget what time it is, forget to pay a bill, hit their head on a ledge, fail to set the alarm clock, get tomato sauce on their face, spell something incorrectly, stumble in trying to get a point across, etc., etc., etc. Correct, you will never be perfect in mortality, but that does not mean there is no hope, that you cannot be happy, that you cannot achieve anything, or that you cannot improve your life or your future for you and your family. God wants us to learn to smile through it all.

I have someone close to me who grew up in an orphanage as a toddler. They tell about the time Jesus came to visit them. I have already given you much to ponder about and to pray about. You were born happy with someone who cared for your needs, filled with hope for an experience you have been planning for a very long time. You had no reason to feel miserable. You had every reason to be in-tune with God's love for you. While you may not have understood those special feelings you had as a child, the feelings were nothing short of peaceful and hopeful. As you grew, adults generally did not speak of these magical feelings, you were taught to doubt and question everything, and you were easily diluted from the magic. You forgot that the state of happiness and love is your choice, even through adulthood. Your faith that God wants to care for you was diminished. Well, time has come to both reverse this faithlessness and to teach our children better, to wash their eyes of the delusions of this corporeal, myopic, and cynical world, to wear the new eyes of eternal vision. We must teach our children that God wants us to learn skills, to help us out with everything, to trust in Them, to be happy and successful, to love Them, to feel love from Them daily, to love like Them and learn to love others, to have a stronger relationship with Them, and to be confident that They will lead us to deliverance and safety.

One of the first common things someone experiences when having a near-death-experience and is also present in those, like me, who have pre-birth memories, is a special life boost or life hack to the vast feelings of God's love that fills everything and everywhere, an ever consuming love that is felt despite our self-judgement, a love that reminds us of "home" before birth, a blissful love that brings absolute security and complete assured peace, a love that little children can easily remember, a love that can easily be connected to and felt to a very powerful and recognizable degree inside the dedicated temples of the Church of Jesus Christ as previously mentioned, a love that we must all strive to remember and invite into our lives and homes, and a love to find ways to share with others just as I am doing here right now with you... Awe, caught red-handed! I really enjoy sharing my experiences and instances from pre-birth memories with trustworthy people in one-on-ones, because they get the opportunity to feel of this love of God to a strong degree as the Holy Ghost witnesses to them the truth of my words.

Here is a small experiment of self-awareness: Perhaps you are one of those people like all people as an adult who likes to listen to fun music you heard as a little child. Take a while to ponder this: Does the music remind you of special feelings, or possibly even memories or other things you felt or thought about when you were a youngster? Perhaps it is also connected to another good memory, which intensified the feelings? This can be applied to other activities you engaged in as a little child, including scents, activities, places, entertaining conversations, books, television shows, and movies. All little children can often somewhat remember the feelings of God's love from before birth, even if they forget the reasons why they enjoy such feelings of security, love, humility, and peace. Do this and begin enhancing your life with more uplifting media and you will have an increase in feeling of God's love. To continue feeling of God's love and in more abundance, Russell M. Nelson says, "The Lord expects daily effort, daily improvement, daily repentance."

Even those who are not given the Gift of the Holy Ghost yet are given a spiritual gift to help guide them to the source of infinite learning, to begin their journey on the Covenant Path and receive that special Gift. If we are striving to walk the path God intends for us, the Holy Ghost influences us to be better, to climb higher, to be more honest, to be grateful, to be humble, to be more Celestial. We can become pre-occupied with the material things of this mortal realm and completely forget about our purpose here on this earth.

There are times when God will close almost every door on us, to open a particular door. Why? Because God knows how to make us happier than we can currently comprehend. Our job is to trust our Heavenly Parents, trust They love us, trust They want what is best for us, and trust They will continue to provide for us all we need to achieve what we came to this mortal earth to do and experience. Ultimately, they do this through Jesus Christ, our Advocate with Them. There will always be opposition when you are on the right path, but trust that God will help you come out conqueror if you welcome and allow the Divine help. Russell M. Nelson says, "I encourage you to take the necessary steps to hear the Lord better and more often so that you can receive the enlightenment He wants to give you."

Ego

We can suspect that most readers or listeners never made it this far into the message. Through inspiration, this was the chosen design, because these gems are not meant for everyone. This provides a better opportunity to sift through the potential readers or listeners in the act of separating the wheat from the tares. Almost humorously, commencing from some of the initial bold statements I made in this document, you may conclude that I have an ego or come across as narcissistic.

If I proclaim that I am a child of God, does that make me have an ego? Perhaps, ego is the inappropriate word to use in this context? If someone says they have a heart that beats, but a rock does not, does that imply they have an ego? This is reality, we have hearts that beat, and we are children of God. In fact, we each are so important that Jesus the Christ has already paid for our mistakes and is ready to endow us with power to overcome everything. Does that mean we have an ego? Perhaps again, maybe the term ego is used too often by insecure people who do not comprehend their true potential. For such people, they too, need to come to the realization that they are also children of God with a purpose to fulfill. They are very important, and God treasures their welfare above even the stars.

Genuine humility recognizes one's weaknesses and strengths. In other words, humility is being in touch with reality, which is key to being led by the Holy Ghost. If someone does not embrace the reality that they really are a child of God with infinite god-like potential within, then how are they to fully obey the first and second great commandments? How can they love their neighbor as themselves if they fail to perceive the true value of their own soul? Anything short of this means that repentance is in order.

I have the privilege to teach primary children at church on Sundays. My calling is just as important as the Prophet's calling. However, when in comparison with this perspective, I confess that I have much room for improvement.

In 1995, Gordon B. Hinckley said,

“This church does not belong to its President. Its head is the Lord Jesus Christ, whose name each of us has taken upon ourselves. We are all in this great endeavor together. We are here to assist our Father in His work and His glory, ‘to bring to pass the immortality and eternal life of man’ (Moses 1:39). Your obligation is as serious in your sphere of responsibility as is my obligation in my sphere. No calling in this Church is small or of little consequence. All of us in the pursuit of our duty touch the lives of others. To each of us in our respective responsibilities the Lord has said: ‘Wherefore, be faithful; stand in the office which I have appointed unto you; succor the weak, lift up the hands which hang down, and strengthen the feeble knees’ (Doctrine & Covenants 81:5). ‘And in doing these things thou wilt do the greatest good unto thy fellow beings, and wilt promote the glory of him who is your Lord’ (Doctrine & Covenants 81:4). Further, ‘And if thou art faithful unto the end thou shalt have a crown of immortality, and eternal life in the mansions which I have prepared in the house of my Father’ (Doctrine & Covenants 81:6). All of us in this great cause are of one mind, of one belief, of one faith. You have as great an opportunity for satisfaction in the performance of your duty as I do in mine. The progress of this work will be determined by our joint efforts. Whatever your calling, it is as fraught with the same kind of opportunity to accomplish good as is mine. What is really important is that this is the work of the Master. Our work is to go about doing good as did He. If in my service I have offended anyone, I offer my apology. To those who for any reason find yourselves outside the embrace of the Church you once enjoyed, I invite you to return and partake of the happiness you once knew. You will find many with outstretched arms to warmly welcome you and assist you.”

7) Reflections on Being Spiritually Minded

There is much to say on the matter of being spiritually-minded. “To be spiritually-minded is life eternal,” while “to be carnally-minded is death” (2 Nephi 9:39). To have an eternal perspective is part of being spiritually-minded, as well as realizing that we are all spiritual siblings. However, the matter I want to emphasize is something that upsets many people, and is the fact that God blesses us when we 1) genuinely appreciate what we have been blessed with; 2) seek and ask for more, especially if the search for more is to bring us closer to God; and 3) strive to: be truthful, embrace all truth, be humble, and progress weekly. This same principle recipe is the key that opens the doors to allow me to take my beautiful wife around to travel and see the world’s most beautiful parts of the earthly creations. Similarly, when we fail to appreciate, travel is hindered. This principle continues to unlock more pre-birth memories and spiritual eyes to see, even today. This principle has brought me wonderful wholesome entertainment, the most efficient educational resources, talents, inspiration, more reasons to smile, and the hope I needed to overcome challenges that seemed impossible.

Now, for the portion that upsets people: This same principle unlocks spiritual treasures of ancient scriptures even beyond the Standard Works. I am not arguing that there are better books than the Standard Works, but that there are other complementary books to the Standard Works that God has provided to us to testify that Jesus is the Christ, books that can magnify temple understanding for those initiates who possess eyes to see and ears to hear, and books to unlock the more hidden secrets of prophets like Isaiah who purposely encoded things to preserve for our times through the Gift of the Holy Ghost. Yes, the most important book God has blessed the world with to unlock such treasures is “The Book of Mormon: Another Testament of Jesus Christ.” Consider what is stated in 2 Nephi chapter 28, verses 27 to 30 and 1 Nephi 13:39 to 40:

“Yea, wo be unto him that saith: We have received, and we need no more! And in fine, wo unto all those who tremble, and are angry because of the truth of God! For behold, he that is built upon the rock receiveth it with gladness; and he that is built upon a sandy foundation trembleth lest he shall fall. Wo be unto him that shall say: We have received the word of God, and we need no more of the word of God, for we have enough! For behold, thus saith the Lord God: I will give unto the children of men line upon line, precept upon precept, here a little and there a little; and blessed are those who hearken unto my precepts, and lend an ear unto my counsel, for they shall learn wisdom; for unto him that receiveth I will give more; and from them that shall say, We have enough, from them shall be taken away even that which they have.”

“And after it had come forth unto them I beheld other books, which came forth by the power of the Lamb, from the Gentiles unto them, unto the convincing of the Gentiles and the remnant of the seed of my brethren, and also the Jews who were scattered upon all the face of the earth, that the records of the prophets and of the twelve apostles of the Lamb are true. And the angel spake unto me, saying: These last records, which thou hast seen among the Gentiles, shall establish the truth of the first, which are of the twelve apostles of the Lamb, and shall make known the plain and precious things which have been taken away from them; and shall make known to all kindreds, tongues, and people, that the Lamb of God is the Son of the Eternal Father, and the Savior of the world; and that all men must come unto him, or they cannot be saved.”

As far as they have also been correctly: initially communicated, recorded, preserved, and translated; these many ancient records we have available that testify of Jesus Christ are miracles and blessings from our Heavenly Parents, but almost nobody recognizes these gems. Whenever a Jewish rabi has a near-death-experience and receives the gift to meet our Heavenly Parents and Jesus Christ, that is a miracle, and there have been so many miracles recently without deceleration. There are so many more records and testimonies out there of Jesus Christ scattered throughout the world, records that prophesied of His life and mission, additional records of His ministry, and many records after His resurrection. We are flooded with these records on every habitable continent and even many islands of the sea, but most people turn a blind eye.

I am saddened to witness when “that wicked one cometh and taketh away light and truth, through disobedience,” (Doctrine & Covenants 93:39) when our spiritual siblings’ spiritual light and intelligence (see Doctrine & Covenants 93:36-37) quickly vanishes as though they never knew of the love of God, completely deluded, depressed, disoriented, frustrated, and eventually become completely miserable schizophrenics. At this point, they become a fountain of sadness for the community. Instead of being a source that builds up, they tear down. Instead of listening to the frequency of glad tidings, they tune into the frequency of nihilism.

Our responsibility to such individuals is to ensure they know they have someone they can rely on for help when they hit the bottom and notice, "Oh snap, all the green grass has disappeared." Even when we remind them of past experiences and they confess their testimony of the truth, they briefly display signs of a spark of light still lit within, but then continue fighting as demons push harder to remind them of their unworthiness and shame. That word again to label this dark scenario: Hell.

Never forget, even if you did something horrible, remember that Jesus Christ is there for you. Why is Satan a Son of Perdition? Because he refuses to be redeemed. How can Jesus Christ redeem someone who refuses to be redeemed? That is a very dark force, do not listen to such depressing thoughts if they cross your mind. Call your Bishop, ask for a blessing. Do everything you need to do to bring the love of God into your life, to replace the unproductive spiteful influences that flood your mind. It is a battle indeed, and the most important battle to overcome at this time in your entire existence even from before you were born, so fight with all your might, even if you believe that your might is not much. Start with the most sincere prayer you have ever prayed.

My primary position in this matter is prevention. We each can play a part in preventing someone's misery by teaching only what we have testimonies about as revealed by the Holy Ghost, which revelation will also be accompanied by a degree of those special feelings of God's love. If you are a teacher, you can best benefit your audience by refraining disclosure of your mere beliefs of so-called fun and deep doctrines, and instead by sticking with and teaching according to your unaltered testimony as given by pure revelation. When you stand in holy places and teach by sharing your testimony of Jesus Christ and our Heavenly Parents as given by the Holy Ghost, the Holy Ghost will confirm your testimony to your audience, then He will usually and immediately put everything else into your mind and mouth, or perhaps to type to share online, to what He wants you to teach your audience, and He will be present to edify you and your audience, according to everyone's needs. Try it! Pray for help to try it.

8) Reflections on the Whole of It

The key is this: For the elect, the honest seekers of truth, who enter the Covenant Path to delight in the same Celestial glory our Heavenly Parents enjoy, making one's Calling and Election sure through faithfulness is a crucial goal in this mortal journey. Part of this process involves remembering who you are from before birth and your personal relationship with God. Obtaining your Calling and Election also blesses your entire family, posterity, and ancestors. Additionally, our Creator and Savior Jesus Christ reveals Himself to you and seals your eternal reward. This is not an exhaustive list of the magnificent gifts one receives from their Calling and Election, but enough to show you the grand value.

I will summarize a beautiful story as found in the book Vishnu Purana, which name translates to the Ancient Scripture of Jehovah. An Israelite story similar in nature to that of Jacob and Esau, there is a story of a man who was to become ruler of the land, but the ruler's first wife eventually had a son who was to inherit the birthright. When his mother broke the news to him, the man was naturally upset. He left the palace distressed, and along the way ran into some prophets who told him that if he follows what they teach then one day he can become not just ruler of this land, but ruler of worlds. He was enticed and chose to do everything they said. His mother mocked him for how dedicated he became to this Church and his obsessed desire to receive his Calling and Election, to especially see Jehovah face to face.

One evening, after an argument he had with his mother about him being such a zealot, she left the room. After she left the room, the Holy Ghost whispered to him to leave the room, because Satan was coming for him. He wondered if his mother was still speaking to him, but no, he was alone. He found that he did not leave quickly enough, because he was surrounded by darkness with devils taunting him. He prayed earnestly for deliverance. Jehovah in his glory appears in the room and asked Satan what he was doing there. Satan replied that he was frustrated, because this man is disrupting Satan's works as the man seeks to receive his Calling and Election. Jehovah instructs Satan to calm down, because after that night, he will no longer feel to worry about that man seeking his Calling and Election anymore. Satisfied, Jehovah commands Satan to depart.

Obviously, the man would no longer be seeking his Calling and Election, because he received it that night. Jehovah spoke long with the man about how He knew the man before he was born and how they were friends. Many sacred and prophetic things were revealed. The man saw Jehovah and communed with Him face-to-face. Jehovah also blessed the man's mother through him, because of the man's faithfulness and love for Jehovah. How beautiful of a story of a faithful man whose family was blessed eternally, because he sought for the best things the universe could offer. Although, forced to be humble, he learned the love of God and pursued the Kingdom of God even above his own reputation, and he found the Pearl of Great Price.

Jesus Christ really was resurrected, lives today, speaks to His Prophet Russell M. Nelson to guide His Church to the happy fulfillment of our Heavenly Parents' children. Jesus Christ is there at the door in hopes that you will let Him into your life to heal you, instruct you, to cast out devils making havoc among your house. Jesus Christ says that one of the purposes of His Church is to prepare the world for His Second Coming, which the Prophet Russell M. Nelson points out is now imminent, and I again repeat his words,

“Here is my promise to you: Every sincere seeker of Jesus Christ will find Him in the temple. You will feel His mercy. You will find answers to your most vexing questions. You will better comprehend the joy of His gospel... Come unto Christ and ‘offer your whole [soul]’ to Him. This is the secret to a life of joy!... At His Second Coming, ‘the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together.’ That day will be filled with joy for the righteous! Through the power of the sacred priesthood keys I hold, I declare this truth to you and to all the world!”

9) Reflections on Christmas Time

Although, modern prophetic revelation shows Jesus Christ was born on the sixth day of April, we celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ during Christmas time. Why is Jesus Christ's birth so important for you? We all can list many reasons such as showing us examples, giving us many eternal teachings, showing us many miracles, paying the price of our sins, dying on the cross for us, etc. However, these things are important, but I want to skip all that to focus on the fact that He was resurrected as the first fruits of them that slept. Because Jesus Christ was resurrected, we too will be resurrected. Through His resurrection, He ascended above all things for us, and He prepares to come to this earth to be our Law Giver and help us overcome the devil's kingdom and influences.

Joseph Smith Jr. said,

“The fundamental principles of our religion are the testimony of the Apostles and Prophets, concerning Jesus Christ, that He died, was buried, and rose again the third day, and ascended into heaven; and all other things which pertain to our religion are only appendages to it.”

He also said, “Without the resurrection of Jesus Christ, we have no hope, no faith, and no religion.” That is good plainness to the point.

We can become so enveloped in the things of this world, which is mostly just silliness and immature in the eternal perspective. Yet, as mortals, this world seems so big, so influential, so busy, and with many finite and distractive things available for a mortal being to achieve and overcome. Nonetheless, Jesus Christ has told even me that nothing in this world, even the end of this world is as important as the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Because Jesus Christ was resurrected, He will also come to rule and reign on this earth in the Millennium, which again, the Prophet Russell M. Nelson points out is imminent. Is our house ready for the Second Coming? Do we look forward with excitement for the peace He is bringing? Do we have enough oil in our lamps? Are we asleep? He will wipe away the tears of the sad, lift the depressed, heal the afflicted, prepare us for greater things, properly mend what has been broken, and bring back a finer eternal perspective.

I obviously do not know everything there is to know in the universe, my mind is mortal with limitations, but this I do know with every particle in me: I know that Jesus Christ was resurrected and lives today. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is His Church, He leads the Church Himself. With faith, He can heal us even today. As a gift to Jesus Christ, what can you do at this time to bring a greater degree of peace and faith to your heart and home?

10) Reflections on Agency

I can get so caught up in spiritual matters, writing things down, telling others, and counseling others, that I can forget to express important stories to the ones who matter most in my life, my own mortal children, the spirits our Heavenly Parents entrusted to me. One reason I feel guilty about this is that I know my children need to hear these things from me most. They are my children and sometimes they get the privilege (or curse) to experience the spiritual world a little more than some others. Do your children understand the feelings of the love of God? Do your children know their purpose?

Our Heavenly Parents are omnipotent and have everything needed to take care of us, provide for our every need, and clear the way for us. Since They love us so much, why do They not just take care of us in every aspect of our lives? Why do we need to take out the garbage ourselves when They could just make the garbage disappear without much effort? They made bread rain down on Israel in the wilderness, why will They not just do the same for us right now? I would like guacamole burgers to rain down every day. Before we were born, They did take care of our every need, so we came here to earth to become individuals, to grow up, to learn responsibility, to be proved, to learn how to take out the trash ourselves, to know when the trash is too heavy to do it ourselves, and have a mortal experience. Although, They still take care of our needs, we perceive we are making progress. You could say that these are like our eternal teenage years. Our Heavenly Parents give us just what we need to exercise faith, so we can learn to create, participate in industry, problem solve, and not deprive us of our mortal experience.

When we are teenagers, we think of how we will not make the same parental mistakes our parents made. When we become parents ourselves, sure, we try not to make those same mistakes, but in the pursuit of preventing our parents' mistakes we become distracted and end up traumatizing our children's lives in other ways (Maybe the word "traumatizing" is too extreme here, but you get the point). While it is safe to say that every earthly parent is a bad parent, especially those parents who think they are good parents, yet, our Heavenly Parents are the opposite of bad parents, They are the perfect parents. In 2019, Russell M. Nelson said, "Because the Father and the Son love us with infinite, perfect love, and because They know we cannot see everything They see, They have given us laws that will guide and protect us." Even though we do not see Them, They see us. Trust Them, always.

Recently, I took my family to visit the rainforests of Costa Rica. The rental home we booked ended up being many hours farther away than the advertised region we booked. We decided to still try to make lemonade out of these lemons. Between the area we thought we were booking and where the rental home actually was located, was the harshest and wildest public dirt road I have ever seen or driven on, and it looked like it had not been serviced in decades. This was monsoon season, so the sky poured heavy rain everyday. My confidence shook as we drove by vehicles with engine snorkels and tour vans stuck in the road's large bowls of muddy water. Our heads constantly hit the vehicle windows as we four-wheeled through the various crevasses and gulches, which looked like there was no end to.

Due to the distance of this challenging road, me and my family were only willing to travel back on this road one extra time to go see one of the hanging bridge national parks next to a volcano. Because of the complications and time it took to drive that road, we left the house at 4:00am. Having just finished again reading Lectures on Faith by Joseph Smith Jr., I was desirous to exercise such faith. I could just forget about the whole idea of praying about the situation and accept the road's condition as it was, but I really loathed that road and how far it stretched out, it was just too extreme.

As I drove my family through this road once again, I said a prayer in my heart as our bodies jerked to and fro in the vehicle. I said something like this,

“This road is horrible and I do not like driving on it. Sure, I'm one for adventure and like a little bumpiness here and there, but this is too much. My wife is expressing her frustrations that I do not know how to book a good location. My mother-in-law is thinking I am incompetent. I was deceived when booking the place. I don't know what the local people think of this road, perhaps they are used to it, like it, or maybe despise it just like me. I really just don't know how they feel about it, but I think they would appreciate for this road to be smooth too. So, I ask and beg for Your nurturing support, at least for the people of this place, to make this road more smooth by the time we drive back, please.”

Trusting with full confidence that our Heavenly Parents heard my plea and love me, I went off to have a wonderful time with my family even though most of the time was spent in the vehicle driving most of that day.

As we were driving back that evening, the rains poured harder than ever. I could not see much of what was in front of me. We eventually came to that same super-adventurous road between Samara and Nosara. I was following GPS, so most of the time, as we were driving, I was convinced that we were on a different road, because many of the deep cavities were gone, and half of the road had freshly new gravel laid. I did not see an army of construction workers. My wife was confused, because there is no way that a new road could have been laid in the hours we were gone that day. Yet, as I recognized many of the same buildings and signs, I wondered if they were all duplicate buildings and signs. Still, the buildings and signs faced the same directions, had the same trees around, and the same cars and tractors were parked in the same places.

The next morning, we had to abandon our rental home early to stay somewhere closer to the airport. I hoped to drive on the same road as the return trip from the night before, because it was so much nicer. As we drove this last time, I thought that maybe we were on another different road than the previous few times, because this road was almost completely new with freshly laid gravel and the massive pits were almost all covered. However, whenever another vehicle would pass us by every 10 minutes or so, there was a distance about 30 to 50 feet where the road was back to an extreme bumpy rollercoaster experience. Maneuvering the remaining pits and gulches felt like using the force to win a sci-fi pod race as I could see exactly where to lay the vehicle's tires for the smoothest and quickest ride possible. I realized that I was having a good time along with everyone else in the vehicle with this most interesting experience, especially as we continued to pass by the same buildings and signs once again. I could not shake off the thought of seeing the same buildings and signs, so when we arrived to the new rental home back in San Jose, I pulled up a map of the area between Samara and Nosara on my phone. There was only one road between the two towns. With this miracle, I had a strengthened testimony of the care our Heavenly Parents have for me, so I made myself a new commitment to be more sincere in my personal prayers and to pray more often.

PART III

A KEY TESTIMONY

Now, My Testimony for You to Savor

I experienced an NDE back in 2015, but that event is not what I want to give much attention to. I died, had a beautiful reunion with everyone from my old dog to family members surrounding me with joy and comfort as well as anticipation to hear about my mortal journey. Yet, now with a clearer mind, as soon as I realized I left behind my sad widowed wife and children, I fell down to the ground in deep grief and chose to immediately return to this mortal experience; so, here I am, please listen to the message God wants you to hear. Do you not want to be genuinely happy, at peace, fulfilled, and feel loved? Feel God's love for you right now. Prove your gratitude for what God is offering you and make that the higher priority than any material achievement or thing in this ridiculous virtual-like challenge you call your mortal life. Work towards getting your family to the dedicated temples of Jesus Christ's Church and make those covenants with a heart of integrity.

Beyond stating that, I will be focusing on a few of my PBMs and important keys to help someone unlock their potential to access the windows of heavenly knowledge of light and truth. Yes, the word “windows” is another key. If there is a concept you do not understand at first, do not stress now, because you can always return to these things again and again. However, another key: never forget to say a prayer to Heavenly Father in the name of Jesus Christ and ask Him about what you do not fully understand, plead for wisdom. I commit you to re-read the entire book of Proverbs as one single chapter, versus breaking Proverbs into individual chapters, paragraphs, or even short verses. For now:

“Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding. For the merchandise of it is better than the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold. She is more precious than rubies: and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her. Length of days is in her right hand; and in her left hand riches and honour. Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace. She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her: and happy is every one that retaineth her. The Lord by wisdom hath founded the earth; by understanding hath he established the heavens. By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew.” (Proverbs 3:13-20).

After reading this, you will not have a perfect understanding, but at the least, you will have a better understanding of the reasons behind why me and others who possess similar and real meaningful pre-earth memories give fixated attention to those memories and behave in the manners that we do. When you read these things, I hope you do so in a place of solitude, because my objective is to provide you with a special opportunity to feel of the love of Jesus Christ, of Heavenly Father, and of our Heavenly Mother. By immersing yourself in these words, you can be filled with Their love and receive the righteous tools you needed to better live the life They desire for you to experience, to fulfill your purposes here on this mortal earth, and to know good momentous fun. Yes, you heard me correct, fun, even when everything seems to be falling apart all around. Faith is fun. If you are too prude for fun, then you may substitute fun for the word joy. "Men are, that they might have joy" (2 Nephi 2:25). Quentin L. Cook, a modern Apostle of Jesus Christ said,

"Do not entertain immoral, dishonest, or unrighteous material. If you do, algorithms can lead you down a path that destroys faith and impairs your eternal progression. You can be acted upon positively or negatively. Seek righteousness and avoid dark internet rabbit holes and doomscrolling. Fill your life with positive, righteous ideas; be joyful; have fun but avoid foolishness. There is a difference. The thirteenth article of faith is a marvelous guide. Above all, immerse yourself regularly in the Book of Mormon, which will draw the Spirit into your life and help you discern truth from error.

"My counsel for those who have in any way deviated from the covenant path is to return to the sacred scriptures, prophetic guidance, religious observance in the home, and the music of faith. Every soul is precious to the Lord. We need you! The Lord needs you, and you need Him! You will always be welcome. During my many years of Church service, I have cherished the wonderful people who returned to the covenant path and then served and blessed everyone they loved or with whom they came in contact.

"The sacred scriptures and living prophets are a major way a loving Heavenly Father makes His plan of happiness available to all His children.

"I bear my sure witness of the divinity of Jesus Christ and the reality of His Atonement."

Unless specifically stated, the subjects I am about to reveal are not my opinions, but is knowledge based upon personal genuine and pure testimony, which is undeniable just as the earth currently revolves around the sun. Everyone has the choice to listen to my words or to dismiss my words. However, those who choose to reject my words are slothful in the realm of eternal enlightenment and call me a liar, which severely offends me, especially for those who know me personally and know that I am not a liar and that I am cursed to be the most extreme critical thinker you may ever meet in your mortal existence before the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. Nonetheless, referencing Helaman 14:29-31, we are each our own judges to what makes us happy and fulfilled, and some simply do not desire the grand happiness this universe offers. I will mention multiple times that even Buddha pointed out that everyone will each be given an equal opportunity at some point to accept or reject eternal exaltation. If you simply desire Terrestrial glory rather than Celestial, God can help you do so, but this message is not for those who seek a Terrestrial world, but is for those who desire the best our Heavenly Parents yearn to give us. After you read these things, if you were previously on neutral ground, you are now required by the eternal laws that govern the Universe to make a choice, which is the most important choice you will ever make in your entire eternal existence all within this short allotted frail time here on this earth, so I am sorry to be the flaming sword that drags you out of the garden.

Allow me time here to literally prove my case to you that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints as a whole is led directly by Jesus Christ Himself, and the Plan of Salvation is all true, and anything that says otherwise is a pure lie and fabrication of the devil himself who also lives and roams about with malevolent evil intentions. The devil is a miserable bully, full of arrogance, and desperation to cause you to feel the same.

Within these last many years, I have been having accelerated flashbacks of memories from before birth. I have always had some memories of pre-earth life, but now I feel like someone who had amnesia with just enough memories to know a little about themselves and are suddenly on the brink of accessing their entire memory bank. Whether it is possible for a mortal to have complete and consistent access to all their spirit body's memories, I do not know, but the Holy Ghost can provide limited to unlimited access for a time to serve a specific purpose. However, I also recognize that many memories present challenges such as losing the numbness of missing our heavenly Home. Veils protect us, which is why people come to this earth with a veil over their memories, but my veil is broke. Not too long ago, I was driving and began to have a flashback that included both Heavenly Father and Mother. The feelings attached to the memory were so intense that I forcefully stopped myself from thinking further into the memory, otherwise I would have broken down in emotion with serious tears that I most likely would have crashed my car. Perhaps, that is a poor example, but at least a fun story. I do not plan on revealing too much description of the deep yearning for Home that is associated with these memories, but it is overwhelmingly strong.

People who have pre-earth memories and are eager to find out answers to their numerous deep questions about such memories are more likely to be open-minded to every supernatural topic available on this little planet. They are prone to (“prone,” which is not definite, is the key word here): explore religions, search any relevant studies, plow through the most exotic ancient texts, ask some of the deepest questions, be critical thinkers, find themselves surrounded by simple things that remind them they are being watched over each day, and may come off a little odd among what others may refer to as normal folk. They feel love, awe, and become mesmerized when they see pictures taken by the Hubble Telescope, look into the blue depths of the Yellowstone hot springs, or gaze the many blue shades of the ocean, especially in places like French Polynesia. Like some ancient Navajos, I am overcome with the turquoise colors, because the turquoise and blue colors trigger some of my favorite pre-birth memories. I speak of the blissful memories and associated feelings of being in a world full of luminescence and contrast while flying through the sky, walking on water, gazing the mesmerizing sky of colors, walking the never-ending beautiful gardens, playing with the animals, making memories by associating with loved ones, and more.

With my pre-earth memories, I have a deeper understanding of what James [2:19-20] wrote when he said, “The devils also believe, and tremble. But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?” Again, who we used to refer to as Lucifer and the one-third of all of God’s children who followed him, they were in our Heavenly Parents’ presence, surrounded and filled with Their constant love for them, yet they still rebelled, rejecting Their grand love for them. How sad, indeed.

All my pre-earth memories and the attached feelings of such places go hand-in-hand. As mentioned previously, while there are drawbacks from carrying such memories, the memories also obviously serve as blessings of strength and a hope, and people who are blessed with the ability to remember things need such recollections to overcome the challenges they are called to surmount in this life to grow and experience what they were called to earth to experience or do. One day, if they are faithful, they may have the eyes to see how their recollection gifts led them and others to the Covenant Path.

There is also the factor of how faithful someone was in the pre-earth life that determines such blessings as becoming mortal while retaining pre-earth memories. My oldest daughter has some very enlightening and powerful memories, even greater than mine. When she was given her patriarchal blessing, the Patriarch told her that she was blessed with such a testimony because of her faithfulness in the pre-earth life. Afterwards, the Patriarch was inspired to tell me that such visions, memories, and even dreams will be coming to people in a more accelerated rate as we draw closer to the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. Since that day, I continue meeting more people around me who have been unlocking pre-birth memories. What a blessing!

Every spirit has a unique spiritual feeling, just like an image, a retina, a fingerprint, a signature, sound of their voice, or even a smell, which is especially important for a blind person. The spiritual feeling for Heavenly Father is not exactly like that of Heavenly Mother, nor is the same for Jesus Christ or even other angels and ancestors. However, of each of these there is a common theme present in the feelings, which commonality is LOVE, each being with their own love signature. This is also why John H. Groberg points out that we all yearn for true love, because our spirits miss that deep loving connection, which is also another reason prayer becomes so important. As we seek to be more eternally minded, ponder on Their love, and do our best, we are blessed daily with times of gradual gifts of feeling wrapped in Their love. Yes, there is a flipside to this. There are those other spiritual beings that desire us to be miserable, depressed, confused, lost, frustrated, angry, hopeless, and even distracted. These spirits introduce such feelings and other feelings like hate, revenge, carelessness, selfishness, depression, inappropriate lusts, jealousy, greed, and short-sightedness.

I really felt to applaud when Henrick Ryosa in an online video said he strives to keep his pre-birth memories unpolluted from other stories. At least for me, people with pre-earth memories who tend to seek out answers are always blessed along the way, which blessings never cease. One thing for certain regarding all such characters is that they are all one big circle that grows closer together to ultimately unite and help ascend each other and others around them who are honest, love all truth, and continuously seek out more truth. Such people love to relate their mysterious memories to others in hopes of finding answers and keeping the memories as fresh as possible. However, as the person is in the right place at the right time, trying to do the best they can in life, they also find that every once in a while the memories are renewed as though such events just happened earlier that day, to be even more memorable than something that just happened even a week before, as though these pre-birth spirit memories are much more dominant than our corporeal memories. Then there are times when we learn that by sharing too much at the wrong time or casting our pearls before swine, we make enemies. In some instances, this case is inevitable.

I am not going to relate every spiritual experience I have ever had, but I am going to relate things pertaining to pre-earth memories, but not every memory either, nor come close to doing so. Disclosing things will be hard, because I also find that other special and sacred experiences are recalled. Another reason why I choose not to relate most of my memories, because again, we should not throw our pearls before swine, which swine will trample all over their feet. Not speaking of commentaries, people with PBM's or NDEs are familiar with people who take their undiluted testimonies lightly, call them liars, and such carelessness is sad, heart-breaking, and discouraging when we yearn to share these things. I find that the best way to avoid casting your pearls before swine is by being in-tune with the Gift of the Holy Ghost. Even then, you may find yourself among many angels, but with one swine within listening distance, another angel may later disclose the pearls to a swine, or one of the angels may later exercise their agency to choose to become a swine. At that point, you can still be consoled to know that you did nothing wrong, and you are being nudged in a new direction. The best you can do is to follow the directions of the Holy Ghost.

I will dissect some of my memories into three main categories: Heavenly Father, Heavenly Mother, and Jesus Christ. Like with Henrick Ryosa, it is common to hear someone who has pre-earth memories confess that when they search through religious doctrines about pre-earth life, the one common religion that goes most into depth on the topic of pre-existence life is naturally the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. The topic is found under the Plan of Salvation, the Plan of Happiness, or the Plan of Exaltation.

Some people, even scholars will delve into topics such as reincarnation or past life regression. I am not going to focus on these topics, because these come from misunderstood knowledge and theories people have attached to unexplainable memories they are unsure how to process, then reject the opportunity to delve deep into the Church of Jesus Christ's Plan of Salvation. Therefore, it is extremely important to acquire a personal witness, a strong spiritual testimony about this topic and the vital role that the Church of Jesus Christ plays in preparing the world for Jesus Christ's Second Coming.

I have answers, but my goal is not to give you all the answers so quickly. Instead, I want to equip you with the tools you need to be more spiritually self-reliant to get such answers and many more answers to eternal questions that never even crossed your mind before. Like the North Star, firm and steadfast confidence is what our Heavenly Parents blessed me with. Yet, obviously not in every matter of mortal frailties, but in knowing what way to go for maximized spiritual happiness and success, and similar confidence is what I desire each of you seekers to achieve. We are all potential heirs to greater things than we can fathom, but loving humility is required to be blessed with any opportunity for Divine revelation and realization to such greater things.

Yes, I am even speaking to you Brother Henrick. I hope we get the privilege of meeting each other one day. Whether speaking of pre-earth memories or even near-death experiences, as for those who have memories of being in palace-like structures with ornate columns, I urge you to look up pictures that show the interior of temples of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, because you may find some of the paradises you are recalling. As you study the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, you will find that the teachings of the Church are not limited to the Church, because all the Church is simply is 100% truth of the universe. No matter where the truth comes from, whether the truth is discovered by the Church, through revelation, from another church or religion, from academics, from the streets, from a genuine PBM or NDE, or even from the Devil himself, it is all part of the Church if it is true. Truth is knowledge of things as they were, are, and are to come (see Doctrine & Covenants 93:24). Truth never changes and is not relative, but is eternal, universal, and good. The Devil is real and chaotically strives to use partial truths to twist truth, to influence people to never come to the knowledge of Jesus Christ and His Church, which contain His authority and the established covenants that our Heavenly Parents prepared for us out of Their pure love.

Recently in General Conference, President Henry B. Eyring, Second Counselor of Russell M. Nelson in the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, said,

“I have been blessed to feel that peace every time I enter the sacred temple. I recall the first day I walked into the Salt Lake Temple. I was a young man. I looked up at a high white ceiling that made the room so light it seemed almost as if it were open to the sky. And in that moment, the thought came into my mind in clear words: ‘I have been in this lighted place before.’ But then immediately there came into my mind, not in my own voice, these words: ‘No, you have never been here before. You are remembering a moment before you were born. You were in a sacred place like this where the Lord could come.’ Brothers and sisters, I humbly testify that as we attend the temple, we can be reminded of the eternal nature of our spirits, our relationship with the Father and His divine Son, and our ultimate desire to return to our heavenly home.”

Testimony: Heavenly Father

Early on in both of my parent's lives they were raised in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, but at some point each stopped attending church for different reasons. My parents met while working together at a diner in downtown Salt Lake City called Dee's Restaurant on a street named North Temple. At the time, they both lived the way of the world. One day while my father was on his smoking break at the bar, a couple of protestant ministers came to him and started mocking the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. My father said that as they did this, he found himself defending the Church. When they left, he came to the realization that he had a testimony that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints really is true. Both of my parents afterwards returned to regular church attendance and turned their lives around back onto the Covenant Path.

Note that my older sister is about two years older than me. About one month after my older sister was born, my parents had the opportunity to go through the Salt Lake Temple together to receive their sacred Temple Endowments and be sealed as a family for eternity. The sealer prophetically told my father that his unborn children were present. As a toddler, I frequently pondered the memories that I am about to share with you, but I will discretely relate them in the order of how they were revealed by me to my parents.

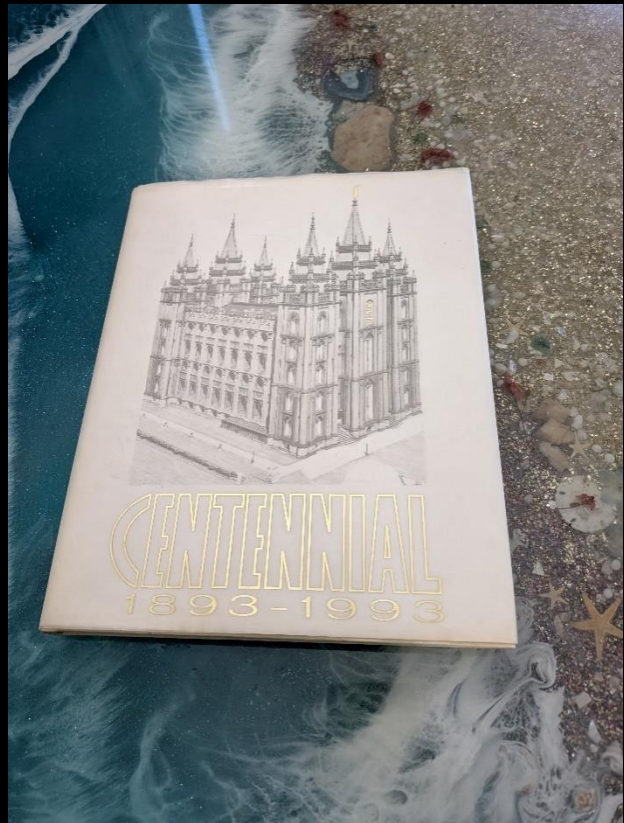

As a little toddler, I remember every time our family walked around Temple Square or went to church, I felt the love of God and knew I was in the right place. Yet, with my limited ability to communicate, I only knew this feeling as the "Spirit" or the "Holy Ghost," which feeling also accompanied a sense of complete security. The feeling helped me overcome challenging times and made good times sweeter, adding significant value and bliss to each of those memories when present. When I was about five years old, my family was walking around Temple Square during Christmas time to look at the lights. There was a moment when we were walking by the north entrance to the Temple. I wondered why the past few years my parents would never stop by with us kids to go in there, because I remember spending much time in there. I was frustrated and really wanted to go in, so I stopped and pleaded with my parents, because I really wanted to go in there. My parents both tried to explain to me that we cannot go in there, because that is the entrance to the Temple. I tried to explain the best a five-year-old could that I have been in there before and that I was having a difficult time trying to understand why I could not go in there at that time. After some sulking and quickly coming to the realization of the real importance of the memory of being in the Temple before, I eventually yielded to my parents' demand to continue walking. What could a five-year-old little boy do to oppose his parents, right? Especially, now that my judgement was incapacitated by this special realization. Yet, I now knew that there was grander significance to these memories of being in there, for that was the Temple of God, the most sacred place on earth, and I was in there with my family before, which felt like we were just inside there not too long ago. This influenced me to ponder on the original memories of being there. I remembered the place, the feelings, and the significance.

The memory is vividly clear and goes as follows. My parents walk to the recommend desk area with my older sister in her car seat. They had to wait a very long time for someone to invite them in for their first-time entrance interview by the Temple President. I was with them and getting very anxious about the long wait. I stared at the walls with the flowery and shiny blue glass designs, which mesmerizing blue reminded me of staring out into the beautiful sky of our pre-earth home. I sat down on a dark leathery bench, paced around the room a bit, and was just getting very anxious and impatient. Impatience, a major lesson I came here to earth to overcome... Good luck to me, right? Yet, this impatience was brought on not only because I disliked waiting, but because I was so excited that they were there to go through the Temple and be sealed as a family, which included me! I was to play a part, to be important, to go through an experience that so many of my brothers and sisters have already gone through, but I would be born into a family that was sealed in the Temple of God. This was the most amazing thing to me, because I knew that the temple ordinances were the very most important things someone could ever do in their mortal journey. I do not know how to best emphasize this, because there is absolutely no comparison on this earth to the grand importance of these ordinances for families as performed in the dedicated temples of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, which I know is a mouthful to say, so please have patience with me. I also find peace in knowing that I knew more things back then as a spirit that I do not know now, but I remember the confidence I had in the Plan of Salvation and the importance of the Church's temple ordinances. To at least know that I was excited that they were receiving their endowments and going to be sealed as an eternal family says in this single experience that what goes on inside the temples of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is eternal, real, worth fighting for, worth dying for, is important for people on both sides of the veil, demands all the attention of anyone who honestly seeks eternal truth, is the true Pearl of Great Price that Jesus Christ speaks of in Matthew 13:45-46, and cursed is every soul that receives Hell's devilish provocation to fight against the Church. However, this is not the only moment from that day that I remember, nor will I divulge every instance of that day.

Next, there is a white book with many beautiful pictures of the interior of the Salt Lake Temple that my father purchased in hopes of encouraging my grandfather Bill Anthony (my mother's father) to return to active church attendance. Before giving the book, my father was going through it on the living room couch. I sat next to him and was pointing out different things I remembered from being in there. He was puzzled how this was all possible, but I could not deny that I had the memories, they are all real, I was there! At that point, I have pondered about these memories my entire life, but now I knew where these memories happened, what a great day that was for me! How could I deny what I know to be real? Again, the pre-birth memories dominate my mortal memories. For those who are curious, ultimately, the book did bring my grandfather back to the Church before he passed away. The book, having been all around the country, has since miraculously made it back into my hands without any request of mine, which feels like a tender mercy of God. I have since used the book to show my children pictures of the Salt Lake Temple, which has also born similar miraculous fruition.

I remember walking into the Telestial Room or also called the World Room in the Salt Lake Temple with my unborn siblings next to my father. There was a sibling ahead of me, but I do not recall exactly which sibling they were, because they looked different. They pointed excitedly to the front corner of the room and said to us, "Look, there's Mom!" She was in the process of sitting down into the overflow chairs for the women in the front. I could feel a united oneness in our enthusiasm together. We were all extremely excited and proud that our parents were going through the Temple for their endowments and to be sealed in the Temple that day. I also remember taking some time to look around the room to see the murals on the walls such as the painting of the lions fighting. Again, I have confidence, because I had confidence before birth that I knew more things about the Plan of Salvation and the dedicated temples of the Church that I do not know even now. I remember that I knew that the ordinances were real, vital, and truly connected both the mortal and spirit worlds; which spiritual gateway connection brings the powers and peace of our heavenly Home to our mortal earth. I knew that the creation was a special time for us. I knew that the Fall of Adam was true. I knew that the Atonement of Jesus Christ really did happen. I knew we had to be born into mortality as part of fulfilling the Plan. I knew coming here would cause us pain, which would cause our Heavenly Parents pain, but it is worth it, which makes our Heavenly Parents have reason to smile about us coming here. I know They would help us along the way if we allowed Them to.

How wonderful and peaceful of a feeling to experience the grand love of our Heavenly Parents in our own homes while going through this mortal journey. What a great gift to the righteous striver? In addition, to be that excited that my parents were going through the Temple for these sacred ordinances also says at least this, "IT IS TRUE!" every sacred thing that goes on in these temples is true, and that the so-called Christians who painted their jealous filthy-lucre faces with black paint and pridefully murdered Joseph Smith Jr. and his brother Hyrum really were servants of the Devil. Yes, that should give you much more to look into later on, but I will continue with my story. What added more to my anxiety was knowing that Heavenly Father was in the Temple that day, because I could feel Him. His love filled everything, I felt right at Home.

As the patrons continue their temple journey after the Telestial Room, the patrons go into the Terrestrial Room. There is a veil that separates the Terrestrial Room and the Celestial Room. I remember meeting Heavenly Father behind the temple veil that leads to the Celestial Room. He gave me a big hug.

In this story, I could call my older sister my “baby sister” since she was a baby at the time, but she is obviously not mortally my baby sister. After the ordinances were complete, I remember walking around the Temple grounds outside with my parents and older sister as they were taking pictures together. I remember being at the reception they held at the church building that evening in celebration of the event. My mom says people were not dancing, but I remember people dancing, embracing, and the cultural hall was packed with people celebrating the special temple ordeal, which again, took place a year or so after their state civil wedding.

There is a very special feeling present when I think deeply about these memories, because I feel the feeling I had with me that day. The feeling is the same as when people have an NDE and are in the presence of God the Father. Later on in life, I came to know that the feeling is the love our Heavenly Father has for me and you. When I go to the Temple, especially the day I went to get my Endowment when I was 19 years old, I felt that same feeling. I know Heavenly Father’s presence was there with me the whole time as I went through the Temple. I wish I could feel like that 24-hours a day, seven days a week. Sometimes, the feeling is much stronger than other times, but the feeling is always there in a dedicated temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Other times, present with Heavenly Father’s love is the love of Heavenly Mother or other times the love of Jesus Christ. If you want to know more about or get a taste for how powerful this feeling can be, then you have been challenged to quickly prepare yourself to experience these ordinances inside one of the dedicated temples of the Church ASAP (as soon as possible) for your personal endowment: the greatest gift in mortality, the story of our Heavenly Parents, a prophecy, a preparation, a map, promises, essential keys, covenants, and one more step closer to even greater blessings, including the opportunity for ascension.

The more often you go to the Temple, the more sacred experiences you will have, the more you will feel of God's love for you in magnificent abundance, and the more you will bring this feeling into your own home, to be a constant component of your home's heavenly atmosphere. Yes, you will have felt a degree of this feeling upon reading this message, but there is so much more in store for you. I urge you to go get it without delay!

I have two younger sisters who also have memories of that day in the Salt Lake Temple. One even recalls sitting on the roof, looking down with fascination at all the people at Temple Square and seeing our mother in her temple attire inside the Temple. Another sister remembers walking in the baptistry area. One young man I knew from church recalls being at his parents' reception the day they got sealed in the Temple, which was also a year after they were married civilly. When a family is sealed in the temple, us mortals are not the only ones who celebrate, but those beyond the veil are celebrating with us, because these temple ordinances for families are again, the most important things anyone can ever do while in their mortal journey here on earth. These experiences are becoming a more common story among the Saints in this generation. However, the story still does not stop here.

Me and my wife have attended many sealings of friends and family and have heard what the sealer has said to the other couples being sealed. Never have we heard a sealer say at anyone else's sealing event as my father heard from his sealer, except for our own sealing. The sealer who sealed me and my wife said the exact same thing word-for-word, "Your unborn children are here." Obviously, this does not mean that other couples' unborn children are not present, but I interpret this as a familial sign, another miraculous tender mercy from God. One of those sisters who also remembers being at the Temple on my parent's temple day was recently sealed in the Draper Temple. The sealer that day mentioned that her posterity and her ancestors were there not just to witness their sealing, but are also ready to help the new couple with raising their family and help them overcome the challenges they would face. This would be possible, because of the covenants they were making with God that day by one with authority to bind those covenants. He also committed everyone present to go back to do the initiatory ordinances to listen to the words spoken, and to find times to go to the temples together.

When my oldest daughter was two years old and learning to speak, she was so excited to tell us about her memories and the things she was counseled by Jesus Christ Himself to tell us. I will let her share her experiences with the world when she feels ready to do so. Her experience is even more sacred than mine, so I will not be sharing too many details outside of the family in a document such as this. However, I will say that she knows Jesus Christ personally, loves Him, misses Him, and always looks forward to go to the Temple to feel His presence along with some promises she was given by Him. She also knows our Heavenly Parents.

Since that time, I have had some additional sacred flashbacks of the day my parents went to the Temple to be sealed. I really hope for the day to share these special experiences with you.

Testimony: Heavenly Mother

I will not be going over most of the symbolism of Heavenly Mother, but how much of the plain and precious symbolism of our Mother in Heaven and of the Christ that we have lost through the ages from influentials like the reforms of King Hezekiah and King Josiah, which loss of symbolisms and written knowledge is beyond sad. Scholars are only recently discovering the unfortunate events that led to the captivity and scattering of Israel centuries before Jesus Christ's mortal birth. This is also the reason behind why many temple-endowed families such as Lehi's family fled Jerusalem, because they were Christians, the visionary folk who cherished the fruit of the Tree of Life. The Tree and the Living Waters, being representations of special elect Mothers.

I find it very interesting that our Mother in Heaven in Hebrew is also known as the Lady Who Walks [or Treads] Upon [or In] the Sea [or Waters]. The first two things I think about are the creation of the earth, and Matthew 14:25-30:

“And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear. But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid. And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water. And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus. But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me.”

How many of our brothers and sisters have said, “Lord, if it be Thou, baptize me,” then lost their way and sunk in the sea? Does it not seem as though our Heavenly Parents are raising spiritual freedivers to try to rescue those who have sunk as they began their journey walking on the water to Jesus Christ? This is why God raised me up, and this is why this document has been created. I never saw the ocean until I was 22-years-old, I could not swim, and I was dreadfully afraid of all water. Now, I am a certified freediver, but I also like to refer to myself as a spiritual freediver, which is a rare person with certain spiritual gifts who can sift through media and discern the most interesting things, which most people would initially think is useless, deceptive, bogus, or perhaps inspired by devils.

There are people who believe that Heavenly Father is withholding knowledge of our Heavenly Mother from us for various reasons. I will let each of you be the judge of that in your own personal lives. Yet, I hope you never reject any manifestation or gift from our Heavenly Parents if ever given.

When I was about three years old, I was exploring my grandmother's house. At one point, I was in her bedroom sitting on the floor, staring at an interesting fluffy rug. I was also thinking about paintings of ships sailing on the deep ocean that were in the next room over. I then began to think about a pre-earth memory of the ocean, unrelated to those paintings. Up to that point, as a four-year-old, I have never seen the ocean or waves roll nor have I seen the ocean on television, but I knew the ocean very well. This memory brought feelings of Home, filled with wonderful love that can only be experienced.

In this memory, I was standing on top of shallow water in the ocean about 30 feet from shore and staring out to sea, at the shore, and at the sky. This was a very peaceful, important, and joyous occasion that I did not want to allow myself to forget. The scene was like night, because there was no sun, but the scene did not feel like night, because there was so much contrast in luminescent colors in everything. The sand on the bottom of the ocean was slightly glowing, but not quite like bioluminescence. The water of the mild rolling waves was crystal clear. While there was no sun-like star to light the sky, the sky was bluish-purple with bright stars, nebula, and other beautiful colors in the sky. There was a crystal-like white hut on the beach. Who I knew and referred to as my Mother at the time, but not my earthly mother though, she came out and called me in. That memory holds a very special feeling, which I have also felt on some occasions in the Temple and some other occasions. Mommy. Some have accused me of blasphemy for having such a memory. Yet, the memory is real and present, a gift no less, to be cherished for eternity.

Most of the time, when I experience that specific feeling as is present in that memory, it has usually been when I am dreaming at night. When I am dreaming and such feeling comes, I am always either in a beautiful temple of a beautiful temple-like city or at least on temple grounds of a beautiful world. When I am on such grounds or in such a temple, it is always a temple I have never seen before and is always of such magnificent beauty and architecture, even beyond anything the world has ever dreamt of to my knowledge. In one dream, I took a tour to learn about the symbolisms of one of these temples. My younger brother says he has had similar dreams of some of the temples I have seen in such dreams. Just as I wish for you to see what I see, I wish I could see what he has seen.

Yes, Nephi was told by the angel that the Tree represented Mary, but there is more behind the symbolism than just Mary, who is not Jesus Christ's spirit Mother also. I was doing some research on the Tree of Life and was finding many connections with the symbolism of Heavenly Mother. This led me to further research and other ancient texts, especially those found in both Hindu and Hebrew libraries. I came across many Sanskrit texts about Heavenly Mother or the Lady of Glory that were very informative. I discovered many similarities between Heavenly Mother's blessings to Her children and to the roles of Jesus Christ to us. After much research, I prayed about my findings and asked for confirmation and continued guidance on my research. I was given such a special experience where I felt like a little baby or toddler with their ever-loving and nurturing mother next to them with a tremendous feeling of love for me that is unexplainable in the English language. Even in an odd location, I fell down on my face with the tears flowing as confirmation from the Holy Ghost filled my whole soul in a loving experience I was never to forget.

Since then, my heart has constantly been reaching out to Mother in Heaven. This has even influenced some of my travel decisions, such as choosing to go to the world's most tropical and serene islands. Even how I managed to get myself to those places and the complex events that led to it and even after were nothing less than miraculous. Only a God could pull off such a series of circumstances and preparations that would provide all the necessary tools, skills, knowledge, appreciation, and situations to accomplish such things for someone like me. I had such wonderful times and never wanted to leave.

Not too long ago, I learned that the Prophet Isaiah, to protect the integrity of the scriptures from wicked people who were eliminating sacred things from these texts, Isaiah changed the name of Heavenly Mother, El Shaddai to the Almighty God. Yet, I have also learned that Jesus Christ also takes upon Himself the names of both the Father and the Mother. Nonetheless, this does not diminish the messages of our Heavenly Parents through our ever-loving Wonderful Jesus Christ. Think of our Heavenly Parents when you read: For God so loved the world that "They" gave "Their" only Begotten Son. As directed through prayer, I also find it interesting when Joseph Smith was in Liberty Jail and the way he addressed God in prayer, yet, very different than the temple dedicatory prayer in Doctrine & Covenants 109. In the Articles of Faith, verse 11, Joseph Smith states: “We claim the privilege of worshiping Almighty God according to the dictates of our own conscience, and allow all men the same privilege, let them worship how, where, or what they may.” You will also be interested to discover the many places “Almighty” is used throughout all the Standard Works. Just another testimony to the world that Joseph Smith Jr. really was a Prophet of God.

There was a particular occasion I would like to briefly share. The purpose of the trip was to pursue the feelings of Heavenly Mother’s love, an act to show how much I missed Her and Her love. From the start, me and my wife indulged in a blissful experience, day-after-day and hour-by-hour was filled with magical moments of constantly being surrounded with wild dolphins, mantas, and turtles; everything somehow worked out beyond perfect through the entire trip. However, I hoped to see whales and even prayed for it. I tried my hardest to spot whales, and I researched how I could spot a whale or hear whales underwater. My wife saw a whale, but I did not. Obviously, I was sad and jealous, because I really wanted to see a whale. Overall, this trip alone changed my entire life in so many ways, including introducing me to freediving.

I wished I could stay at least one more day, so I prayed and asked that the airplane would not be able to fly. We can all say that this was a horrible thing to pray for, but my heart yearned to stay. In hopes of staying another day, I stopped by a clothes store on the way to the airport to buy another day's set of clothing, just in case. When we were on the airplane, at first, people were noisy as usual, and some were very anxious to get back to the mainland. Suddenly, everyone began to be silent as a strong powerful feeling flooded the airplane's atmosphere, the feeling of Heavenly Mother's love boarded the airplane. Then the captain soon announced that there was a light sensor that came on that lost his confidence in flying the plane over the Pacific Ocean. In summary, we were to stay one more night. Woohoo!

I called the airline to ensure our re-booked flight would be in 24 hours, to be the 10:45pm versus the 4pm flight everyone was being booked on, to give us plenty of time to enjoy a whole day's experience on the island. We headed to the hotel, which was an hour-and-a-half away.

The feeling was so strong and came with me all the way to the five-star hotel, which looked like a marble temple and made the experience all that more magical. I was able to fulfill more of my desires that I prayed for on the trip such as seeing whales. We dined with one of the most beautiful views. There is more to this story, which every detail is beautiful and miraculous. I feel like this trip made me an official "Momma's boy."

About 6pm as we were leaving the outside dining restaurant, we found all the passengers who were re-booked for the 4pm flight returned to the hotel and were among us once more, because the 4pm flight was the same airplane as the night before, but was still broke. At that point, one of the passengers stated that the feeling in the airplane the night before felt eerie, which I dared not comment, being afraid to throw my pearls before swine. When I commented on just a few things that I expected to happen, they accused me of having superhuman abilities like Ben Stone on Manifest, a popular modern television show they were following at the time, which I resisted commenting further. Indeed, my life felt like the paradisaical version of that television show character. Yet, how I have always wished that everyone could know as I know, that you can feel those special feelings inside the dedicated temples of the Church and have every day filled with miracles. Oh, what peace, hope, confirmation, and love. Yet also, what guidance, tools, and help are found within the walls of the temples.

Did I confront this entire situation the right way? I really do not know, but I too try to do my best with the knowledge I have. I also know I love Heavenly Mother and Father and Their Son Jesus Christ.

The feelings of love of our Heavenly Mother are very powerful, undeniable, a firm and total assurance of pure love, somewhat intimidating, demanding respect, yet comforting, and bring creativity, a sense of adventure, comfort, protection, additional perseverance, nurturing, knowledge, hope, and should I add a little bit of spoiling us children.

I feel as though my life is constantly being lead to the waters. I seek to say “I love You” to our Mother in Heaven by going to the dedicated temples of the Church of Jesus Christ, by exploring the waters, and by serving others and fulfilling my life’s missions. I especially enjoy visiting French Polynesia, because the environment there is closest to our garden world from before birth, but I also feel a sense about Tel Aviv, Israel, which I have yet to visit at the time of writing this. I do not know if people experience the same feelings I do when I seek out these adventures, but if they do, that would be nice.

There was a recent experience I had of visiting the Blue Lagoon in Rangiroa. I made the decision to leave my dive camera behind. I was the only person in the group who decided to go snorkeling around the lagoon. The water seemed to shine brightly with many bright shades of beautiful blue and turquoise. There was a moment I looked down into the water to view a beautiful patch of purple coral surrounded by white sand. Then I looked up at the beach, which was beautiful with healthy green trees and plants. The sky was a beautiful blue with the perfect amount of clouds. Then, I put my goggles halfway in the water and halfway above the water. The sight I beheld was not the same as my pre-birth memory with Mother, but the sight's beauty was just as comparable on the scale of beautiful indeed, but different.

Due to the desecrations and abominations of Kings Hezekiah and Josiah and their blind priests, many of the prophets such as Isaiah and Jeremiah have concealed their language to make it hard to the unbeliever to understand (see Isaiah 6), even as Jesus Christ taught in parables. The names and symbols of the Lady in the Temple and of the Christ were deleted and changed as the Asherah Tree and the Nehushtan Brazen Serpent were taken out of the Temple. Scriptures were altered by uninspired people (Deuteronomy taking the biggest hit it seems). However, thanks to Isaiah, we can still find plenty of hidden treasured references.

Our family recently went to Thailand to enjoy some family time island hopping down south, diving, swimming, and exploring. Again, I love the islands, because it is a time for me to feel close to Heavenly Mother. At the end of the trip, we stayed in Bangkok to have an opportunity to attend the newly dedicated Bangkok Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. While in the Temple, an old friend took me on a tour to see the baptismal font. He pointed out how the tiles in the font were made of abalone shell from the southern islands of Thailand. I found it very interesting how at that very day I was wearing my ring that reminded me of Heavenly Mother, which was also made of abalone shell. Then I thought about how the waters that run beneath the Tree of Life from out of the Tree also represent the Mother, which waters come to a point where they separate into four directions, and in the center place where they divide into the four directions is where Adam was baptized.

Testimony: Jesus Christ

Jesus Christ is where everything good comes together. Jesus Christ takes on the names of both Heavenly Father as El, and of Heavenly Mother as El Shaddai, for They together are also Elohim or the House of El or add some English: the Els; Jesus Christ then becomes the Alpha and Omega, the Oma, Amen, or Ammon. He is our Advocate with our Eternal Parents. At times, He speaks for our Father, and other times He speaks for our Mother. After receiving a testimony of these things, especially around the love Each has for you, Mother, Father, and the Son, you will have new eyes to read the scriptures as though reading for the first time. You will understand that Jesus Christ brings not only His love, but the love of Mother and Father and Their Priesthood. I also find it interesting in local meetings when a Church General Authority presides and states that they bring the love of the First Presidency to us, every time. This same pattern is seen when a member of the Stake High Council speaks in sacrament meeting and states that he brings the love of the Stake Presidency.

Our Heavenly Parents gave us Jesus Christ. He is our Heavenly Parent's representative for us as we go through this mortal journey. We go through Him to know Them and worship Them. Jesus Christ is the veil between us and our Heavenly Parents. He has been blessed with the love from our Heavenly Parents for our eternal benefit. He leads the way. He is in charge. He knows how to run to our aid. He knows when we need angelic intervention. He possesses an eternal perspective to know what we truly need when we need it. That foremost important key to accessing the grandest gift is prayer in the name of Jesus Christ Who is our Advocate, Mediator, and our most loving Friend in this mortal existence. We do this by ending our prayer by stating, "In the name of Jesus Christ, Amen."

I do find it interesting in cases such as Alma the Younger when he prayed "Jesus, thou Son of God, have mercy on me" (Alma 36:18) and received his miraculous healing. Even when people call upon the Son of God in other translations such as ancient Hindi, miracles follow. We can find many hidden treasures of different ways people have prayed as written in all ancient scriptural books.

Yet, please note that I am not promoting for anyone to pray in a certain fashion other than what Jesus Christ instructed us. Ultimately, we are to follow the revelatory guidance of the Holy Ghost on a case-by-case basis, for the Holy Ghost is the law. In addition, we can be assured that when we pray to the Father that our Mother in Heaven also hears our cries. Mother and Father work side-by-side through Jesus Christ in our eternal welfare. If you strive to work to have a genuine conversation "with Them" and not just pray "to Them," then They can help lead you in your prayer. For example, one day you may feel inspired to tell Heavenly Father that you love Him and Heavenly Mother. These can be special moments when you can miraculously feel of Their love back. Nevertheless, we have been taught the order of prayer, so to be safe and as a foundation, try to maintain the concepts Jesus Christ revealed about prayer unless He changes this doctrine Himself in the Millennium or through His messenger the Prophet, Russell M. Nelson.

The feelings that follow the presence of Jesus Christ are quite distinct. As you pray to feel of His love and seek out those experiences, Heavenly Father will eventually bless you with many experiences to help guide your progression. I have communed with Jesus Christ in dreams, felt of His presence in the Temple on multiple occasions, felt of His magnificence during other spiritual visitations a few times, and once heard His voice audibly speak to me at a desperate time during my teenage years. To help in your pursuit, you will be blessed with angelic and revelatory experiences. The feeling can be powerful to the point that one can feel like they can command all elements to do as they please with complete peace and love. I have specifically felt this feeling multiple times in the Temple, once at a Youth Conference, and once when serving a mission in Chiang Rai, Thailand while teaching about Joseph Smith Jr.'s First Vision in the place we now refer to as the Sacred Grove.

Interestingly, I also find that the feelings and similarities between Heavenly Mother and Jesus Christ are so intertwined. No wonder why ancient Jewish rabbis and the Hindu gurus get confused and speculate about the somewhat confusing connections between Heavenly Mother, Jesus Christ or Jehovah, the Lady of Glory, and Jehovah's female Counterpart. The elect Mary can certainly be added to this list. The Tree represents the Love of God, the Living Waters represents the Love of God, and the Fruit represents the Love of God. Nonetheless, the most important principle to remember and consider is that everything God does for you is because of the love God has for you. This is also why we say "God" in general, because the Love of God works together in one purpose as Zion to your eternal well-being. You are to become one with God if you are to receive your Calling and Election, to inherit Celestial Glory, to know our Eternal Parents and Jesus Christ, to be like Them through the grace of Jesus Christ and His infinite sacrifice.

Church leaders are holding local meetings on Sundays, advising people to prepare for the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. As mentioned, Russell M. Nelson recently said, "Here is my promise to you: Every sincere seeker of Jesus Christ will find Him in the temple." We are constantly being urged to attend the temple more often. These really are joyous days to be living in. Russell M. Nelson also said,

"We have front-row seats to witness live what the prophet Nephi saw only in vision, that 'the power of the Lamb of God' would descend 'upon the covenant people of the Lord, who were scattered upon all the face of the earth; and they were armed with righteousness and with the power of God in great glory.'"

We worship God through regular church attendance, partaking of the sacrament, participating in priesthood ordinances, going to a dedicated temple of the Church, and reaching out to God through study of the scriptures, sincere and faithful prayer, obeying the commandments, and serving and loving others. Ultimately, we can feel of God's love for us by striving to love God with our whole being, and not just once a week (see Alma 32:11). God wants to constantly bless you, and for you to feel of that great love for you, but God also wants you to love God. This leads us back to the topic of worship.

We are instructed to worship the Father through Jesus Christ (see Doctrine & Covenants 59:5-12) every day in all we do, but with greater emphasis on the Sabbath Day. I recognize Jesus Christ as my Master, Who I worship, but I also worship my Loving Mother and Father in Heaven through Their Beloved Son Who is my Great Mediator, even Jesus Christ. By excluding any of Them, my worship would be inadequate, my salvation would be deficient, my hope would be fractional, and my understanding of Jesus Christ's love for me would be incomplete.

Do not simply listen to scholars or people who claim to have researched these things, but gain your own testimony about Who Heavenly Father is, Who Heavenly Mother is, and Who Jesus Christ is. If you seek Them with a humble sincere heart and real intent to do whatever They would have you do, then line-upon-line, They will manifest Themselves to you in the way you need to fulfill your responsibilities here on this mortal earth. They want you to know Them, I know Them, and I want you to know Them.

Researchers and scholars can have beneficial knowledge about discoveries and sources of their research, but always primarily follow the guidance of the Holy Ghost, and learn to recognize and follow such Divine direction. Your life existence will be so much better, filled with Their love for you each day. Do you not want this? First, believe that They really do love you, and believe that our Heavenly Parents have already gone through a mortal experience like you are right now, but on another earth similar to this one. They know how to help you, They are highly invested in your success with an eternal outlook, and They have provided you with all you will need to achieve eternal life and become like Them through Their Son Jesus Christ. Accept Their Son and strive daily to follow Him, even to the end of your mortal journey.

My Parents Today

Unfortunately, my parents are not together today, but God through a temple sealer promises everything will be figured out one day during the Millennium. While their paths have gone different ways, they too, must fight the good fight that they are called to do, to pass through the fuller's fire.

There are memories from when I was a toddler that I could remember from the pre-earth life that have since been taken from my mind. One of those memories is how we chose our parents before birth, which I only remember this, because I remember a discussion I was having with my older sister about it when we were little children. I find this interesting, because there are many little children who remember this same detailed event.

If your parents have chosen an unfortunate path, please do not be discouraged, but have hope for your future and rejoice that Jesus Christ was resurrected. The best thing you can do for your living relatives and those who already graduated from this mortal existence is to serve in the dedicated temples of Jesus Christ's Church. The greatest hope for your family is only found within the walls of a dedicated temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Do you struggle with addictions? The first principles to remember are to never give up and be humble about it. Know that Jesus Christ will help you if you let Him. This requires a yielding heart, sincere prayer, serious fasting, daily efforts in spiritual studies, sacrificing unproductive media, have a goal-oriented mentality, a desire to seek out God's love each day, keep the commandments as far as you can, go to church each Sunday, be patient, and constantly meet with your local priesthood authority such as your Bishop.

Some of the toughest addictions are easily overcome by prayer mixed with plenty of research on the topic to gain a testimony about the topic. For example, if someone is addicted to pornography, they would benefit from having a testimony about how even popular pornography involves human trafficking, which consumption practice invites demons into their home that make havoc on their life and the lives around them. These miserable evil spirits work to influence those in the home to believe false concepts, act abnormally, and do all within their power to cause the people in the home to be as miserable as possible. They break families apart, enhance anxiety and depression, and crush aspiring dreams.

Epilogue of Reflections

Just as you should be seeking to fulfill your life's mission here on earth, one of the purposes of me writing this is that I can shake my garments clean before you, as a witness to God that I have fulfilled a part in accomplishing my life mission, to testify to all who desire to hear, that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is true, and that the ordinances that go on in the dedicated temples of the Church are real and relevant for both sides of the veil. There is nothing more important in this world than the sacred work initiated in these temples that exalts families, which is possible through the resurrection of Jesus Christ. God lives, has provided a way, offers you all the answers you need, and will help you get through this mortal journey as you were meant to. Do not be a pessimist, do not listen to any voices that discourage you from perseverance or seeking to be like our Heavenly Parents, enjoying your perpetual inheritance, and climb to higher ground, starting in these holy temples.

I am not a liar. I was not born to be a liar. I was born to be successful. I was born to bring this testimony to you, to bring hope to your mortal existence, hope for your family. Pre-earth memories cause me to become seriously home-sick often, even so much that there are times I become very depressed when I lose focus of the things that are here in mortality that matter eternally such as my own mortal family's welfare. However, I also feel an extra boost of energy to continue on, knowing that I have lived for a very long time before this life, will continue to live forever, and that this life is short; so I should not be a prude, but make the most of it and have some wholesome fun while doing my very best doing what I know to be righteous and true. I do not know everything there is to know in the universe, I am not God; but like you, I too, have mental limitations as a mortal. I do know that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is the true Church of Jesus Christ on the earth and as restored through an actual Divinely-chosen Prophet who was given the power of God to be a Prophet and to do prophetic things.

Conspiracy or Permission

Did I or someone else sabotage the veil system in the pre-mortal world? A funny conspiratorial thought indeed. Even if I did, God knew and allowed it, just as others around the world are revealing that they also remember their pre-earth existence. PBMs relating to the Plan of Salvation appears to be a spiritual gift that runs throughout my own family, so perhaps this is evidence that we were all involved in a conspiracy to disrupt the veil system, right? I do not know, but it is an amusing thought. One variable I find in each PBM case is that such memories are essential in providing the required Divine-given prescription to the more difficult experiences we have been called to face. Yes, we each pass through the tailored challenges needed for a proper life experience, and we are expected to turn those experiences around to help others, but we are also one more testimony that the Plan of Salvation is real, the Second Coming of Jesus Christ is imminent, and that one day, everyone will confess that Jesus is the Christ and that His resurrection is the most important thing that makes everything possible in the dedicated temples of His Church.

A recent neighbor could remember things from before birth. Their latest theory is that this is the case since they were born dead. I too was born dead and had to be resuscitated, so I have wondered if that was the reason. Perhaps, but that does not explain the many others in my family who remember things.

Naturally, one of the unfortunate things of remembering your pre-earth life is, well, remembering your old good life. It was a life full of bliss, peace, security, unexplainable beauty, and wonderful distracting memories. This has influenced me to be obsessive, to have focus concerns, has fed to my problem of impatience, given me an edge to seek only for great things, and to have unrealistic expectations of mortals around me. A long story made short, this even led to attempts to escape this mortal world to go back. Fortunately or unfortunately, God will not let me take the easy way out. I am sure this is because of the prayers I say, pleading for desperate help and deliverance while still doing the very best I can in seemingly impossible situations. I always share my feelings the best I can and ask Heavenly Father in the name of Jesus Christ, for help. Sometimes, I have no idea what help I need, but that I do need help and that I will go as far as I can go. Well, I am still here, breathing, annoying my family, seeking out adventures, trying to avoid being condemned for not fulfilling my life purposes, receiving answers to all my prayers, learning to be patient, to trust in God in all things, to learn to be an individual, learning to be a father, and just like you I am making lemonade out of these lemons. Delicious. I too, have to learn to overcome the unhappy or distraughtful feelings when things do not play out even to my minimal expectations.

As a father, I learn things about Heavenly Father that I could not have known before. That is faith increasing. As my faith in God grows, my optimism grows, I feel of God's love for me more, I can accomplish more, I feel more fulfilled, and I become more enthusiastic about serving others.

Healthy Expressions of Love

Due to having vast PBMs, I have always yearned to feel of God's love, and I have been spoiled with such a blessing. However, call me slow, because for the first 33 years of my life, I was so used to feeling the love of God as a normal thing that I failed to even recognize the significance of such a feeling. As mentioned, I gave into devilish thoughts of feeling useless and unwanted, so I experienced depression and poor health for most of my life, much of the thanks going to the poor quality of diet found in the United States nutritional culture, so I can still relate to mortal limitations and struggles. Towards the end of May of 2018, one evening, my mind was begging Heavenly Father to vanish me from existence, both body and spirit, and to take care of my family in addition to making them forget all about me. I immediately experienced the Still Small Voice say, "But you're one of My children." I remarked with a regretful comeback, "But You have so many other children to rejoice in." No response right after that. However, there was more to the phrase of, "But you're one of My children," because those words were also accompanied by an interesting revelation that I am not sure how to explain. I am probably going to butcher the explanation, but I am going to try anyways. I felt this spiritual umbilical cord-like connection of pure love to the One on the other side of the prayer. I will bet that this prayer was the biggest epiphany of my mortal existence.

While growing up, my parents rarely displayed love and affection for one another. Never have I heard my dad tell my mom in front of me that he loves her, nor have I heard my mom say so to my dad (Yes, both guilty... I may never hear the end of this family drama after stating that here). This influenced me to think of “love” as an alien topic. Whenever I would hear someone at church announce how they love God, my first reactions were quite immature, “Love? Yucky, gross.” While this lack of reciprocal love between my parents played a major factor in their separation, I have strived to reverse this trend in my own marriage. Most devastating is the fact that I would recognize God’s great feelings of love to me simply as “the Spirit” or the “Holy Ghost.” Even when miraculously feeling of God’s love for other people when serving, before May 2018, I would not confess that these feelings were what they were: the pure love of God for me and everyone. This humbling experience opened a window of wonderful gifts for my life’s well-being. Therefore, in both word and deed, tell your spouse you love them, tell you children, tell your friends, and especially tell God in prayer.

An Experiment You Can Try

I do hope that by composing this message, that I am not damning any souls out there who are not ready to hear these messages about their lives’ purpose, but that I am truly fulfilling my life’s mission, that I am able to bring peace and hope to you. I state this, because I also encourage people to constantly seek out diverse experiences as a testimony of God’s everlasting love for you.

For example, I hope you all get the opportunity to go to a modern Buddhist shrine room, whether that be the ultimately famous Wat Pra Kaow in Bangkok, Thailand or a local shrine. I like to use the example of Wat Pra Kaow, because as you walk around the grounds, you admire the beauty and you can still feel a touch of God's love for you until... The time then comes to enter the great shrine room of the Emerald Buddha statue. The particular statue is the most significant thing for this Buddhist sect. They even have different golden clothes that they decorate the statue with for the different seasons. When you begin to walk into the shrine room, coming to the doorway threshold, the feelings you felt outside on the grounds immediately vanish. The room becomes a spiritual void of nothingness, a vacuum for God's love. The feeling is the exact same in every Buddhist shrine room I have ever entered. With all the beauty in the room, you cannot feel a single ounce of God's love for you. Absolutely depressing and empty as though God refuses to allow such a special feeling to be present where people mock God through idol worship, something Buddha preached against. Yet, as soon as you walk out of the room, the feelings start to come back, even while on such God-mocked grounds, but I can always feel a little residual spiritual scarring from the act of simply walking in there. Interesting, indeed.

My favorite part of the excursion was a picture in a museum near the exit of Wat Pra Kaow. The picture was of the sacred tree that Buddha Gautama prayed underneath. There was an inscription next to it about the story. In summary, Buddha had an experience like Joseph Smith Jr. in the Sacred Grove. At that point, I already knew that the person history referred to as Buddha was a Prophet who testified of Jehovah coming down to be the Messiah to redeem mankind, and to restore the Gospel in its fullness. So, seeing and reading this, the trip to Wat Pra Kaow was again worth it.

As for the spiritual experience. I commit all who read this to experience what me and my wife did, to enter a Buddhist shrine room, obviously do not do any idol worshiping, but then go to a dedicated temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and feel the massive difference, very massive, night and day, black and white, light and dark, burning hot and freezing cold... You get the point.

You can do this same exercise by visiting other religious places of worship such as mosques, synagogues, various churches, ancient temple ruins, or sacred sites of the past. Take a long moment to pray and examine how your heart feels at the time compared to other moments in your life. Visit these locations on multiple occasions and rate the variable range intensities of God's love. Then enter a dedicated temple of the Church of Jesus Christ to once again compare. Share your experiences with your loved ones and ask them to do the same. Make sure to record your experiences, feelings, and impressions, including the daunting moments that tested your heart's perseverance. Your posterity needs to hear your stories, both the exciting and challenging times.

Some Thoughts on Joseph Smith Jr.

The Prophet Russell M. Nelson says,

“In the scriptures, there are very few sacred instances in which the voice of God the Father has been heard; so when He says something, we really need to listen. Repeatedly, He has personally introduced His Beloved Son, Jesus Christ with a specific charge to ‘hear Him.’ Have you ever stopped to ask, ‘Why?’ Why is our Heavenly Father so insistent and consistent in His plea that we should ‘hear’ His Beloved Son, Jesus Christ? Jesus answered this question Himself. He said, ‘I Am the way, the truth, and the life. No man cometh to the Father, but by Me.’ Our Father loves us and yearns for each one of us to choose to return to His holy presence. He pleads with us to listen to the voice of Jesus Christ, Whom the Father anointed and appointed as our Mediator, Savior, and Redeemer.”

I encourage everyone to read the many accounts of Joseph Smith Jr.'s First Vision where God the Father introduces His Beloved Son Jesus Christ to the boy Joseph Smith.

When Joseph Smith was 14 years old and wanted to know what church to join, he had the faith to pray vocally to God for his first time and ask. This ultimately resulted in what we now refer to as the First Vision of Joseph Smith. God the Father and Jesus Christ revealed Themselves to Joseph through a vision in the place we now call the Sacred Grove. Joseph had the marvelous sacred privilege of asking Jesus Christ directly what church he should join. Jesus Christ in response quoted Isaiah.

“I was answered that I must join none of them, for they were all wrong; and the Personage who addressed me said that all their creeds were an abomination in his sight; that those professors were all corrupt; that: ‘they draw near to me with their lips, but their hearts are far from me, they teach for doctrines the commandments of men, having a form of godliness, but they deny the power thereof.’ He again forbade me to join with any of them” (Joseph Smith History 1:19-20).

Multiple times in this sacred dialogue, Jesus Christ told Joseph Smith directly not to join with any of the churches of the time. Does this mean that all other churches are bad? Obviously not, but you have the cognitive ability to figure things out with the words God provided Joseph Smith, including what God spoke to Joseph Smith Jr., especially after reading this message today. You even have the same ability as Joseph Smith to ask God through prayer and receive an answer. You can ask the same way as directed by Moroni when asking God if the Book of Mormon record is true:

“Ask God, the Eternal Father, in the name of Christ, if these things are not true; and if ye shall ask with a sincere heart, with real intent, having faith in Christ, he will manifest the truth of it unto you, by the power of the Holy Ghost. And by the power of the Holy Ghost ye may know the truth of all things. And whatsoever thing is good is just and true; wherefore, nothing that is good denieth the Christ, but acknowledgeth that he is. And ye may know that he is, by the power of the Holy Ghost; wherefore I would exhort you that ye deny not the power of God; for he worketh by power, according to the faith of the children of men, the same today and tomorrow, and forever. And again, I exhort you, my brethren, that ye deny not the gifts of God, for they are many; and they come from the same God. And there are different ways that these gifts are administered; but it is the same God who worketh all in all; and they are given by the manifestations of the Spirit of God unto men, to profit them” (Moroni 10:4-8).

In answer, you may not see an astonishing manifestation like Joseph Smith’s vision, or you might, but God will at least answer in the way you need and to maintain your perpetual agency through the end of your mortal world experience.

I then think of when Joseph Smith prayed in his room, asking for forgiveness. The angel Moroni appeared brightly in his room and told Joseph “that God had a work for [him] to do” (verse 33). Then Moroni goes into an introduction about the work needed for our ancestors, which included quoting and expounding on the words of Malachi.

I think of the seemingly numberless miraculous testimonial experiences people have experienced since the First Vision, including all of my own experiences, which are so many and beyond what I could fit into a document such as this. I do write many of these experiences down in a guarded journal for my posterity. How would you like to live a daily life full of huge miracles and constant revelation that leads you and your family to safety, ascension, hope, and that supernatural love we have discussed? That is my life. I live a life full of miracles each day. I wish everyone could experience what I do.

I have been to the Sacred Grove where our Heavenly Father and our Savior Jesus Christ revealed Themselves to Joseph Smith. Not only did I go there with a testimony, knowing that the Church of Jesus Christ is true, but I did have a mighty revelation from the Holy Ghost, confirming that these events mentioned are absolutely true. The Spirit of God fills those sacred spaces and is intense there similar to the dedicated temples of the Church.

I think of when the Prophet Mormon, Moroni's father, in the book of Third Nephi stated,

“And now there cannot be written in this book even a hundredth part of the things which Jesus did truly teach unto the people; But behold the plates of Nephi do contain the more part of the things which he taught the people. And these things have I written, which are a lesser part of the things which he taught the people; and I have written them to the intent that they may be brought again unto this people, from the Gentiles, according to the words which Jesus hath spoken. And when they shall have received this, which is expedient that they should have first, to try their faith, and if it shall so be that they shall believe these things then shall the greater things be made manifest unto them. And if it so be that they will not believe these things, then shall the greater things be withheld from them, unto their condemnation. Behold, I was about to write them, all which were engraven upon the plates of Nephi, but the Lord forbade it, saying: I will try the faith of my people. Therefore I, Mormon, do write the things which have been commanded me of the Lord. And now I, Mormon, make an end of my sayings, and proceed to write the things which have been commanded me. Therefore, I would that ye should behold that the Lord truly did teach the people, for the space of three days; and after that he did show himself unto them oft, and did break bread oft, and bless it, and give it unto them. And it came to pass that he did teach and minister unto the children of the multitude of whom hath been spoken, and he did loose their tongues, and they did speak unto their fathers great and marvelous things, even greater than he had revealed unto the people; and he loosed their tongues that they could utter. And it came to pass that after he had ascended into heaven—the second time that he showed himself unto them, and had gone unto the Father, after having healed all their sick, and their lame, and opened the eyes of their blind and unstopped the ears of the deaf, and even had done all manner of cures among them, and raised a man from the dead, and had shown forth his power unto them, and had ascended unto the Father— Behold, it came to pass on the morrow that the multitude gathered themselves together, and they both saw and heard these children; yea, even babes did open their mouths and utter marvelous things; and the things which they did utter were forbidden that there should not any man write them. And it came to pass that the disciples whom Jesus had chosen began from that time forth to baptize and to teach as many as did come unto them; and as many as were baptized in the name of Jesus were filled with the Holy Ghost. And many of them saw and heard unspeakable things, which are not lawful to be written.” (3 Nephi 26:6-18).

We came here to this earth with a purpose, to also prove to ourselves what we desire. Personally, I desire the greatest there is to be offered in the universe, which is all that Father hath and has promised to give to those who are willing to put forth the effort required. Yes, we all fall short, and that is where Jesus Christ comes in, but that does not mean that we can just relax and forget about trying at all. We must strive, because we qualify for His grace only after all we can do. True, do not run faster than you have strength, but with the strength of Jesus Christ yoked upon us through the covenants our Heavenly Parents provided, we can accomplish anything we are called to accomplish. We can overcome anything. We can see miracles. I am seeing miracles. I see major miracles like the Red Sea getting parted for me daily as I repent and try to do what is right. As mentioned, as far as I have seen roads I just saw the worst road on the planet become smooth. God knows we are weak, God gave us our weaknesses, to help us be humble; so do not stress over your weakness, but rejoice that you have such weaknesses and enjoy the grace of Jesus Christ. Sure, His grace is not a free pass to be sinful, but He loves forgiving you. Perhaps, you lack knowledge about a specific topic or were taught false doctrines that leads you to error? When you truly humble yourself then God can do miracles and heal you through your faith. What do you lack: faith, hope, charity, humility, gratitude, patience, forgiving others, forgiving oneself, wisdom or testimony about a certain topic, consuming healthy sustenance, etc.? My point is this: Jesus Christ forgives people much easier than many people perceive. Even the mere act of improving yourself each day to prepare to receive covenants can qualify you to receive God's miracles.

Like the Prophet today says, God expects us to improve ourselves each day. It is a good question to ask ourselves, because are we really improving ourselves, or are we thinking today is next year and the now is yesterday, so we are fine? We are each human and make mistakes, but that does not excuse us from doing our best with the knowledge we currently possess. There is such thing as too late. We will be judged according to what has been blessed to us. Did we sell all we had to purchase the Pearl of Great

Price, or did the Pearl simply not intrigue us enough? I do not know your situation, but you do, and God knows your situation better than you do. Heavenly Father will always be there to help us if we are humble enough to ask Him in the name of Jesus Christ. Will you, please?

A terminology almost everyone gets confused about and sometimes misuse is that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is the Kingdom of God on this earth, but the Church is not the actual Kingdom. Jesus Christ established the Church Himself to be the vehicle to establish God's Kingdom on this earth, or else the whole earth would be wasted at His Coming.

October of 2022 is when me and my super-beautiful wife went to Palmyra, New York to visit the Sacred Grove. We were in for a surprise, especially since I did not know the buildings still existed. While the main Smith home is a rebuilt structure, the space is the exact same, we went into Joseph Smith's bedroom where the Angel Moroni first appeared to Joseph Smith when Joseph was praying for forgiveness. The spirit we felt there was so overwhelming. We felt God's love completely surround us so strong, but that is not all. As we were walking through the other structures and around the land, I was having a special sacred experience, like a vision was opened to me the entire time. I felt and saw as though I was there with Joseph Smith having those experiences with him. Before we even got to the Sacred Grove, as we approached the entrance of the Grove, I could not help but burst out crying so hard from the overwhelming love of God present there like in a dedicated temple coupled with the experiences I was having there. That was definitely one of the best days of my mortal existence. Oh, how I wish others could have what me and my wife had experienced that day. What is amazing is: fortunately, every honest seeker of truth can, and we have been promised by the Prophet Gordon B. Hinckley when the Palmyra Temple was dedicated, which Temple sits above with a view of the Sacred Grove.

Important Points About Spiritual Feelings

Many times we hear people say to pray to know if these things are true. Yet, why do the Prophets often commit everyone to pray about the truth like Moroni says in Moroni 10:4, to pray to know “if these things are not true”? The answer is the same as mine, confidence from being a witness that these things are true, are worth dying for, are worth living for, are worth giving up everything for, and is the pathway to partaking of the fruit in Lehi’s dream, the pure love of God. This is the most efficient and effective way to feel of His love, to fill our lamps with oil in preparation for Jesus Christ’s Second Coming, not just at a time in one’s life, but every single day of your mortal life. That is worth pursuing and sharing with your family and the one’s you love, and is the reason I am sharing this with you here. I want you all to enjoy the fruit of this Tree, the Tree of Life. If you still need more convincing, then read the Book of Mormon to prove the book is not true, because I promise you that you will feel of God’s love for you as you read the book with an honest heart, and you will gain a stronger testimony that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, sent here to provide you with a gift. Please accept His gift.

There is such thing as false revelation, some briefly discussed in here. As for someone who claims to not feel anything in real sacred places on earth, schizophrenia and other serious mental illnesses are real and sad. I am not an official expert on this subject, but I do know that such individuals definitely also have their challenges to face in life and they need all our understanding and ministering as far as they allow us to. Having suffered from extreme and dangerous depression, I can tell the world that such person does feel of God's love even in such times of spiritual numbness, but they are in an unhealthy mental state that is overwhelming. They need angels, they need you and me, they need prayer most of all. When they are healed, there are methods where they will recall feeling of God's love even in great abundance at those dark times in their lives, combined with the feelings of concourses of angels to help lift them up. They will feel like the person in the poem, "Footprints in the Sand," and see where there was only one set of footprints when life was hard, that those footprints were God's footprints carrying them through the journey. I know this, because as already mentioned, I have been through the most serious depression anyone can ever confront in this life.

Remember, the words spoken in Galatians 5:22-23, "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law," and James 1:27, "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." I will not speak further on the topic of mental illness here, because this is a discussion that is reserved for another venue, a complex topic that requires full alertness, multiple brain hemispheres to follow and for constant anchorage, and a special Gift of the Spirit to categorize, direct and facilitate, maneuver, and prescribe the appropriate remedies to help the person heal. Nonetheless, one can practice spiritual discernment exercises with the appropriate guidance from the Gift of the Holy Ghost and angels as touched on in this message, which gift of discernment requires practice, experience, pure humility, a righteous theology that is full of truth as corroborated by the Holy Ghost, and a clean heart through the Atonement of Jesus Christ.

Sometimes, we just want to rescue someone from feeling pain. We want to dictate to them everything all in the pursuit of preventing such pain. However, us Prodigals have come here on this mortal journey, and we may need to experience these pains. Nonetheless, I hope this message has helped someone in preventing further annoying and unnecessary repeated pain.

Just like the beasts of this earth, which each obey the laws they are given, we ultimately go to the kingdom of which law we willfully choose to obey. Only God and His authorized servants who can receive revelation on our behalf can pass judgement as to all our eternal destinations. The Plan of Salvation is also called the Plan of Happiness. Whereas some people simply do not care to go to the Celestial Kingdom, but everyone can agree that good people deserve to be happy, right? Is the Celestial Kingdom worth the effort? I will leave that between each individual and our Heavenly Parents and Their Savior who They provided for you to have such an opportunity.

Buddha means prophet. However, people generally refer to Buddha as Siddhartha Gautama. The general Buddhist today does not really follow the actual teachings of Buddha, and as far as his words were preserved, but most are cafeteria-style followers. Obviously, Buddha was not a Buddhist, which will be a good future discussion. I point this out to state the following: Even Siddhartha Gautama Buddha, who prophesied of the coming of the Messiah or Metraiya, which means "the One who saves." He specifically preached that Metraiya is Jehovah and will come around 500 years after him, succeeding an apostasy. He preached against idol worship and said that everyone will have an equal opportunity to receive or reject the opportunity of eternal exaltation. How can this be without the revealed vicarious temple work and the tender mercies of God? Not surprising, the only religion on the planet that affirms the words of Buddha is the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, which I believe is the real religion of the Buddha.

We are here to receive a mortal experience, and to learn to overcome the annoying drama of mortality's delusions and lies, but the experience is supposed to be wonderful, challenging, enlightening, and proving. Jesus Christ says His sheep hear and know His voice, the voice of truth, gladness, relief, strength, but also the voice that leads us through the unknown darkness into light, success, fulfillment, and happiness. If you want the greatest, you must do the greatest. If you want the religion that brings you closest to God, He has provided the privilege for us all through Jesus Christ who speaks to His chosen prophet today to lead His Church through revelation, even Russell M. Nelson, who knows Jesus Christ in a private and personal way.

If you are new to this and felt a curious feeling of adventure or are struggling to understand the feeling of Heavenly Father's love for you as felt inside the dedicated temples, try this: Take a quick break from your schedule right now or the soonest you can, by yourself or with your spouse drive to a dedicated temple, park your car, just walk around the temple grounds, say a prayer in your heart about your thoughts about life thus far, ponder, chat with your spouse about spiritual things if they are there, pay attention to how you feel at that moment, and never forget the feeling. Now, if you want to feel that same feeling much stronger, and want to feel that way in your own home, work to go inside the temple in the near future, and go as often as possible. Need help? Pray for angels. They will come in the form you need according to your faith at the time, but they will come, I guarantee it, and you can feel their presence.

Now, I advise you to review the contents of this message again and learn to use the tools I taught you. By doing so, you can become a righteous warrior and hunter of truth. I discourage anyone from using this document to quote from, but consider the document only as a whole, which each section works together in leading you to understand your life purpose. I side with Nephi when he answered the angel in 1 Nephi 11:17, "I know that he loveth his children; nevertheless, I do not know the meaning of all things." In addition, I do not know everything there is to know in the universe, I am not God, but I do know that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is the Church of Jesus Christ, is led by Him, and is the light and truth we need to prepare us for His Second Coming to lead us into the Millenium. Yes, more conversation to come.

PART IV

A Special Message

A Special Message to Unborn Spirits

To those who have chosen to get this far in the message and whose unborn posterity surround you at this time as you read this. This message is for those unborn spirits who feel nervous about coming into the mortal experience.

You are not alone. While this mortal world may seem so bleak, dark, dull, and lonesome, actually, it can be very beautiful. This is a different world, but still very beautiful. This is all worth the journey, thanks to the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Think of the moment I was freediving in the deeper parts of the shallower waters of Blue Lagoon in Rangiroa, French Polynesia. I was pondering about the beauty mentioned previously that I remembered from pre-mortality. While at the water surface, I looked down into the water to see beautiful coral of various colors: blue, purple, pink, tan, red, yellow, and orange. Behind the beautiful wall of coral was a backdrop of beautiful blue water with so many tropical fish swimming around me and sharks and stingrays passing me by. Then I looked up out of the water to see a beautiful blue sky with the perfect mix of bright white clouds here and there.

Under the sky were beautiful bright white beaches with very healthy green plants and palm trees of all sizes. The water that made the name “Blue Lagoon” was all sorts of shades of bright beautiful blue. I was feeling the love of God, then, with my goggles halfway in the water to see the underwater beauty and then to see the beauty above the water, I thought how beautiful this scene was.

This was the most beautiful scene I have encountered on this mortal planet. Was it really like our pre-earth life? Yes and no, because ultimately it was different, yet beautiful in comparison indeed, but a different experience of beauty. My point is to state that there is beauty to be found in this world also, if you are willing to seek it and see it.

Take time to soak in the beauty and dwell on the love our Heavenly Parents have for you. That is my recipe to how I get through this life. I know this will work for you too, so you must overcome the deluded and unnecessary drama this world tries to inflict upon you. If you feel discouraged or swallowed up in the ridiculous drama, pray to Heavenly Father. Pray all day if you must. Pray non-stop. Pray, then pray again, but pray. Never forget about involving Heavenly Father in your life, especially if you feel like quitting life. Tell Him how you feel and ask Him to save you, and He will with His omnipotent love for you. Yet, do not forget to put forth your best effort to qualify for His merciful and never-ending supply of help. You can also as a spirit, ask our Heavenly Parents to send you to earth with the blessing to know that the Plan of Salvation is real, that They love you, and for someone to quickly teach you how to pray to Them sincerely. Through this, you can also be a great benefactor to your family.

Work continuously to shove devilish forces out of your life, out of your home, and out of your family's lives. If you feel discouraged in that fight, do not over-worry, but take a moment to laugh and breath. As you breath, know that Heavenly Father and Jesus Christ are God, Their hands are in the details. Then pray some more. Your sight has been shortened from mortal birth, but that is a main reason why you are here, to learn to trust that They love you and are with you through everything. Therefore, always keep Them involved in your life through prayer, meditation, seeking Them, returning to the dedicated temples of Jesus Christ's Church, keeping the commandments, following God's chosen living Prophet and other leaders, and showing your appreciation for all the resources They give you by studying the scriptures.

Forget about national pride, because this is vain. Work on your sphere of influence to increase the liberties of those around you no matter where you are born. Love your neighbors. Learn wisdom. Seek for the best experiences for you and your family to bring you closer to our Heavenly Parents' influences and opportunities of feeling Their love for you each day. Do not over-stress about the experience, but have fun, and encourage others to have fun.

Enjoy the experience. Learn to recognize and always follow the promptings of the Holy Ghost. If you feel lonely, worried, confused, lost, or hesitant, tell Heavenly Father immediately. Seek for the best, but be humble and work to be humble. That is how you can overcome this world.

I say this in the name of Jesus Christ, Amen.

Apology

This was another message that sifts the wheat from the tares. Although, even Satan claims to be wheat, this does not eliminate the decisions you are now faced with. Pray for humility, faith, courage, guidance, and charity.

Recognition

Thank you to the following for your help in providing additional graphics: NASA and STScI, and Microsoft Copilot as edited with Adobe Photoshop.